A unique Four-Way Access System enables users of the Handbook of Technical Writing to find what they need quickly and get on with the job of writing:

- 1 The more than 500 entries in the body of the Handbook are alphabetically arranged; the user can usually turn directly to the needed information. Words and phrases in bold type within the entries provide cross-references to related entries.
- 2 The Index provides an exhaustive listing of topics not only under the terms used in the entries but under various other terms the user might think of instead.
- 3 The Topical Key to the Alphabetical Entries arranges the entries, with page references, in subject categories; it serves as a topical table of contents to assist the user in reviewing a broad subject covered by several entries and facilitates the correlation of the Handbook with a standard textbook.
- 4 The Checklist of the Writing Process arranges key entries, with page references, in the step-by-step sequence in which a successful writing job is accomplished; it serves as a guide to planning and writing, and as a diagnostic tool for revising.
