Sourcebook Unesco,1991 Comments on development networks and gives networks profiles      Thomas Jefferson's Qur'an
Denise Spellberg,2014-07-01 In this original and illuminating book Denise A Spellberg reveals a little known but crucial dimension of the story of American religious freedom a drama in which Islam played a surprising role In 1765 eleven years before composing the Declaration of Independence Thomas Jefferson bought a Qur'an This marked only the beginning of his lifelong interest in Islam and he would go on to acquire numerous books on Middle Eastern languages history and travel taking extensive notes on Islam as it relates to English common law Jefferson sought to understand Islam notwithstanding his personal disdain for the faith a sentiment prevalent among his Protestant contemporaries in England and America But unlike most of them by 1776 Jefferson could imagine Muslims as future citizens of his new country Based on groundbreaking research Spellberg compellingly recounts how a handful of the Founders Jefferson foremost among them drew upon Enlightenment ideas about the toleration of Muslims then deemed the ultimate outsiders in Western society to fashion out of what had been a purely speculative debate a practical foundation for governance in America In this way Muslims who were not even known to exist in the colonies became the imaginary outer limit for an unprecedented uniquely American religious pluralism that would also encompass the actual despised minorities of Jews and Catholics The rancorous public dispute concerning the inclusion of Muslims for which principle Jefferson's political foes would vilify him to the end of his life thus became decisive in the Founders ultimate judgment not to establish a Protestant nation as they might well have done As popular suspicions about Islam persist and the numbers of American Muslim citizenry grow into the millions Spellberg's revelatory understanding of this radical notion of the Founders is more urgent than ever Thomas Jefferson's Qur'an is a timely look at the ideals that existed at our country's creation and their fundamental implications for our present and future

Implementing the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) through national fisheries legal frameworks Nakamura, J.N., Kuemlangan, B.,2023-10-24 In recent years an increasing number of commercially exploited and managed aquatic species including sharks and rays have been listed in the Appendices to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora CITES The listing of some species in CITES Appendix II has necessitated attention from the fisheries sector of States on how listing would impact on the management of the relevant fisheries This sourcebook and the research process involved in its development highlighted the opportunity to implement CITES through national fisheries legal frameworks Indeed in certain cases doing so can prove to be vital in giving practical effect to CITES while simultaneously enhancing fisheries management regimes and ensuring that all activities along the fisheries value chain especially the international trade in CITES listed aquatic species are legal traceable and sustainable The study recognizes that communities operating within the CITES regime and in the fisheries sectors have their own particular areas of work However they should cooperate and coordinate their work where they share the common high level objectives of ensuring responsible legal and sustainable utilization of resources including species biodiversity and ecosystems and implementing the relevant Sustainable Development Goals This sourcebook was first published in 2020 designated as a super year for nature and biodiversity The second edition of this sourcebook was developed to take into account and reflect the outcomes of the 19th meeting of the Conference of the Parties to CITES in 2022 The sourcebook is a timely and useful contribution to fisheries management as it seeks to provide support in i raising awareness of CITES ii enhancing comprehension of the CITES regime and its relationship with the fisheries sector and iii where a deliberate decision is made by a country to implement CITES through its national fisheries legal frameworks providing guidance on what to do and how to do it

The Horn of Africa as Common Homeland Leenco Lata,2010-10-30 Contemporary states are generally presumed to be founded on the elements of nation people territory and sovereignty In the Horn of Africa however the attempts to find a neat congruence among these elements created more problems than they solved Leenco Lata demonstrates that conflicts within and between states tend to connect seamlessly in the region When these conflicts are seen in the context of pressures on the state in an era of heightened globalization it becomes obvious that the Horn needs to adopt multidimensional self determination In Structuring the Horn of Africa as a Common Homeland Leenco Lata discusses the history of conflicts within and between Ethiopia Eritrea Somalia and the Sudan and investigates local and global contributory factors He assesses the effectiveness of the nation state model to forge a positive relationship between these governments and the people Part 1 summarizes the history of self determination and the state from the French Revolution to the post Cold War period Part 2 shows how the states of the Horn of Africa emerged in a highly interactive way and how these developments continue to reverberate throughout the region underscoring the necessity of simultaneous regional integration and the decentralization of power as an approach to conflict resolution Motivated by a search for practical answers rather than a strict adherence to any particular theory this significant work by a political activist provides a thorough analysis of the regions complicated and conflicting goals Muslims' Place in the American Public Square Zahid H. Bukhari, 2004-05-17 Once a year Muslims from around the world representing a vast range of ethnicities incomes ages and attitudes perform the Hajj pilgrimage and converge in the holy city of Mecca in Saudi Arabia Now the global diversity of Muslims at the Hajj is almost replicated in the United States new immigrants Muslims whose families have been here for generations and converts are coming together seeing what unites them and what issues they face together Project MAPS Muslims in the American Public Square began in 1999 to provide much needed information on this understudied and immensely diverse group of six million Americans This first volume emerging from the project Muslims Place in the American Public Square shows where the American Muslim community fits into the American religious and civic landscape both before and after 9 11 Renowned scholars contribute theoretical legal historical and sociological perspectives on how Muslims function in both their own institutions and others For classes in religion or the social sciences or for anyone interested in this increasingly significant community Muslims Place in the American Public Square provides a current balanced introduction Implementing the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora through national fisheries legal frameworks Nakamura, J.N. and Kuemlangan, B., 2020-11-11 An increasing number of commercially exploited and managed aquatic species has been listed in the Appendices to the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora CITES triggering the attention from the fisheries sector of States on how listing would impact on the management of the relevant fisheries CITES regulates international trade in certain aquatic species including those which are and can be commercially exploited and which are being managed by the fisheries sector The fisheries sector legal frameworks will have to recognize and enable the various requirements provided for in CITES including the making of non detriment findings and ensuring that there is a designated management authority and scientific authority to take certain decisions in respect of listed commercially exploited and managed aquatic species This sourcebook provides clarifications on the relationship of CITES with the fisheries sector and provides guidance on how national fisheries legal frameworks can optimize the implementation of CITES The realisation of this sourcebook in 2020 designated as a super year for nature and biodiversity represents a timely and useful contribution to fisheries management by i raising awareness of CITES ii enhancing comprehension of the CITES regime and its relationship with the fisheries sector and iii where a deliberate decision is made by a country to implement CITES through its national fisheries legal frameworks providing guidance as to what do it and how to do it
