Multicultural Education as Social Activism
Christine E. Sleeter, 1996-01-01. Connecting multicultural education with political issues of power and struggle, this book explores what multicultural education means to white people given the unequal racial power relations in the U.S. and worldwide. It examines connections between race, gender, and social class, particularly as these connections play out for white women. While taking a feminist perspective, the author is also wary of the power white middle class women exercise in defining what counts as gender issues. Throughout the book, Sleeter argues that multicultural education was born in political struggle and can never meaningfully be disconnected from politics. Ultimately, the quest for schooling for social justice is a political quest rather than a technical issue.

Multicultural Education Training LaToya A. Jackson M.E.D., 2015-09-15. This teacher education training program will help preservice and beginning teachers develop culturally sensitive curriculum that will integrate multicultural viewpoints and histories into the classroom, apply instructional strategies that encourage all students to achieve, and review school and district policies related to educational equity. The multicultural education teacher training program is a comprehensive training curriculum that provides knowledge and skills necessary to teach in a multicultural classroom. This training program emphasizes hands-on practice in a professional learning environment which equips prospective teachers to participate in a diverse learning environment. From a multicultural perspective, all students should receive an education that continuously affirms human diversity, one that embraces the history and culture of all racial groups and that teaches people of color to take charge of their own destinies. With regard to teaching a multicultural perspective, it assumes that teachers will hold high expectations for all students and that they will challenge those students who are trapped in the cycle of poverty and despair to rise above it.

Multicultural Strategies for Education and Social Change
Arnetha F. Ball, 2006. This book describes a different approach to teacher education designed to create carriers of the torch: teachers who have a sense of efficacy and the attitudes, dispositions, and skills necessary to teach students from diverse racial, ethnic, and linguistic backgrounds. Through her examination of teacher change and teacher education in two countries, the United States and South Africa, the author proposes new ways to prepare teachers for a rapidly changing global society. Presenting the story of a dynamically successful program that was developed and implemented with over a hundred U.S. and South African teachers, this book shows us how to facilitate the development of teachers who see literacy as a tool for understanding and building upon student diversity in their classrooms, restructure teacher education programs to cultivate teachers who are committed to teaching socially and economically disenfranchised students, foster teachers' interest in understanding the historical, cultural, political, and economic circumstances and resources that students bring to the classroom, and empower teachers to become agents of change and develop their own voices on critical issues related
