has been written about the housing policies of the Depression and the Postwar period Much less has been written of the houses built as a result of these policies or the lives of the families who lived in them Using the houses of Levittown Long Island as cultural artifacts this book examines the relationship between the government sponsored mass produced housing built after World War II the families who lived in it and the society that fostered it Beginning with the basic four room slab based Cape Cods and Ranches Levittown homeowners invested time and effort barter and money in the expansion and redesign of their houses The author shows how this gradual process has altered the socioeconomic nature of the community as well bringing Levittown fully into the mainstream of middle class America This book works on several levels For planners it offers a reassessment of the housing policies of the 1940s and 50s suggesting that important lessons remain to be learned from the Levittown experience For historians it offers new insights into the nature of the suburbanization process that followed World War II And for those who wish to understand the subtle workings of their own domestic space within their lives it offers food for speculation

Fighting Prosaic Messages Henry C Amoroso Jr,2018-04-11 Part historical fiction part memoir part philosophy of education this book begins with a story about a womans immigration into the U S and how three of her generations struggled in the U S school system The book ends with an analysis of why many students fail in school and what we can do about it Through story and analysis this book offers a critique of the U S education system in 3 parts Part one imagines what the immigration experience was like in the past and reads like historical fiction Part two looks at the ensuing three generations in the present and reads like a memoir Part three gleans lessons from the story as a whole for what we can do better in the future In the historical fiction part a Sicilian woman named Rose emigrates to the U S at the turn of the twentieth century Knowing no English and illiterate but armed with a moral intelligence she struggles in this strange world of the free rubs shoulders with some of the great thinkers of her day and discusses the nature of education with them Shes one of the many prosaic heroes history books and schools sometimes forget In the memoir part Roses son Henry the authors father drops out of school in the eighth grade to help his single mom by selling newspapershe never thought he was smart enough for school anyway His son Henry Jr goes all the way in school to obtain a PhD but struggles to find a voice along the way Henry Jr s son Justin was seemingly born with an expressive voice but in his shuffle to conform to the school system almost lost it In these 3 cases we see 3 types of students who often fail in school in general In the final analysis part the book reflects on these prosaic cases to understand why so many U S students fail The theme that emerges parallels the traditions of Rousseau Dewey and Montessori students at heart are good and educators are most effective when they treat them as such students learn best by doing and this includes moral doing and students become intrinsically motivated to learn if allowed to think critically creatively and to find their voices If democracy depends on an informed citizenry the questions this book raises about school failure are critical to the future of our nation J A
