Russell, 2006-08-17 If we expose students to a study of human suffering we have a responsibility to guide them through it But is this the role of school history This issue is the rationale behind teaching the Holocaust primarily historical moral or social Is the Holocaust to be taught as a historical event with a view to developing students' critical historical skills or as a tool to combat continuing prejudice and discrimination These profound questions lie at the heart of Lucy Russell's fascinating analysis of teaching the Holocaust in school history She considers how the topic of the Holocaust is currently being taught in schools in the UK and overseas Drawing on interviews with educationalists academics and teachers she discovers that there is in fact a surprising lack of consensus regarding the purpose of and approaches to teaching the Holocaust in history Indeed the majority view is distinctly non-historical there is a tendency to teach the Holocaust from a social and moral perspective and not as history This book attempts to explain and debate this phenomenon Holocaust Education in Primary Schools in the Twenty-First Century Claus-Christian W. Testimony, Tensions, and Tikkun Myrna Goldenberg, Rochelle L. Millen, 2011-10-01 The Holocaust was a cataclysmic upheaval in politics culture society ethics and theology The very fact of its occurrence has been forcing scholars for more than sixty years to assess its impact on their disciplines Educators whose work is represented in this volume ask their students to grapple with one of the grand horrors of the twentieth century and to accept the responsibility of building a more just peaceful world tikkun olam They acknowledge that their task as teachers of the Holocaust is both imperative and impossible they must teach something that cannot be taught as one contributor puts it and they recognize the formidable limits of language thought imagination and comprehension that thwart and obscure the story they seek to tell Yet they are united in their keen sense of pursuing an effort that is pivotal to our understanding of the past and to whatever prospects we may have for a more decent and humane future A Holocaust course refers to an instructional offering that may focus entirely on the Holocaust may serve as a touchstone in a larger program devoted to genocide studies or may constitute a unit within a wider curriculum including art literature ethics history religious studies jurisprudence philosophy theology film studies Jewish studies German studies composition urban studies or architecture It may also constitute a main thread that runs through an interdisciplinary course The first section of Testimony Tensions and Tikkun can be read as an injunction to teach and act in a manner consistent with a profound cautionary message that there can be no tolerance for moral neutrality about the Holocaust and that there is no subject in the humanities or social sciences where its shadow has not reached The second section is devoted to the process and nature of students learning These chapters describe efforts to guide students through terrain that hides cognitive and emotional land mines The authors examine their responsibility to foster students personal connection with the events of the Holocaust but in such a way that they not instill hopelessness about the future The third and final section moves the subject of the Holocaust out of the classroom and into broader institutional settings universities and community colleges and their surrounding communities along with museums and memorial sites For the educators represented here teaching itself is testimony The story of the Holocaust is one that the world will fail to master at its own peril The editors of this volume and many of its contributors are members of the Pastora Goldner Holocaust Symposium Led since its founding in 1996 by Leonard Grob and Henry F Knight the symposium s scholars a group that is interfaith international interdisciplinary and intergenerational meet biennially in Oxfordshire England Teaching the Shoah Zev Garber, Kenneth L. Hanson, 2022-11-16 Today more than 80 years after the Holocaust Shoah the events surrounding Hitler s campaign of murder have not receded into the distance but remain memorialized in multiple venues both scholarly and popular This volume is an anthological collection of essays and creative pieces showcasing the pedagogical issues related to the Nazi genocide It addresses the field of Shoah education featuring new and novel ways to promote awareness of the reality of the genocide as well as an understanding of the instrumentalities both philosophical and physical which drove and concretized it In addition to serious academic contributions this volume features a play a short story and a discussion of the use of educational video in an online environment It provides insight into the overarching question how can and should the Shoah be taught and what approaches can be utilized in sharing the most important lessons of this most unspeakable example of ethnic cleansing in human history

TEACHING THE HOLOCAUST Nicholas St. John Peters, 2023 The purpose of this study was to explore how teachers conceptualize and teach the Holocaust Although there were numerous studies on Holocaust education particularly on teachers approaches and practices there was little evidence regarding teachers conceptualization of the event and the ways it impacted their approach to teaching it in their classrooms In addition to examining their approach to teaching it this study carefully reviewed the state curricula and mandates on the topic mass marketed textbooks and other materials on the topic and teacher generated teaching materials learning guides and assessments to capture how teachers conceptualizations of the Holocaust were transmitted to their students Further it provided researchers with a comprehensive empirical analysis and contributed to increasing the scholarly literature on Holocaust education This study sought to address the following research questions How do three in service teachers conceptualize and teach the Holocaust How do the teachers define the event and narrate and frame the rationale for teaching it and its causes course stages consequences historical actors and lessons How did their conceptualization influence and inform their pedagogical decision making How did their conceptualization influence and inform their interpretation of the curriculum This intrinsic collective case study triangulated data from interviews with teachers reviews of their materials and observations of their classes to provide an in depth and detailed view of the approaches three Pennsylvania Social Studies teachers took to teach about the Holocaust in their classroom This study additionally served as a tool for school districts and policy makers to best inform their future decision making regarding the types of pre and in service trainings teachers need to fully conceptualize and teach the Holocaust including their selection of powerful strategies and resources and assessments to cover the topic in a way that met all of the local and state standards while also covering the state s suggested pseudo mandate which hopefully led to more robust and enduring student learning
