Visualizing Africa in Nineteenth-Century British Travel Accounts Leila Koivunen, 2008-11-19 This study examines and explains how British explorers visualized the African interior in the latter part of the nineteenth century providing the first sustained analysis of the process by which this visual material was transformed into the illustrations in popular travel books At that time central Africa was effectively a blank canvas for Europeans unknown and devoid of visual representations While previous works have concentrated on exploring the stereotyped nature of printed imagery of Africa this study examines the actual production process of images and the books in which they were published in order to demonstrate how why and by whom the images were manipulated Thus the main focus of the work is not on the aesthetic value of pictures but in the activities interaction and situations that gave birth to them in both Africa and Europe

Nineteenth-Century Gardens and Gardening Sarah Dewis, Brent Elliott, 2024-06-19 This volume is the fifth of a six volume collection that brings together primary sources on gardens and gardening across the long nineteenth century Economic expansion empire the growth of the middle classes and suburbia the changing role of women and the professionalisation of gardening alongside industrialisation and the development of leisure and mass markets were all elements that contributed to and were influenced by the evolution of gardens It is a subject that is both global and multidisciplinary and this set provides the reader with a variety of ways in which to read gardens through recognition of how they were conceived and experienced as they developed Material is primarily derived from Britain with Europe USA Australia India China and Japan also featuring and sources include the gardening press the broader press government papers book excerpts and some previously unpublished material

The Mass Image G. Beegan, 2008-01-09 The Mass Image situates the creation of the first photographically illustrated magazines within the social relations of the emerging popular culture of late Victorian London It demonstrates how photomechanical reproduction allowed the illustrated press to envisage modern life on a much more intense scale than ever before
