The Tanks of Operation Barbarossa Boris Kavalerchik, 2020-01-31 An absorbing study of the tanks and the tank tactics of the Red Army and the Wehrmacht during the Axis invasion of the Soviet Union in World War II When the Germans invaded the Soviet Union in 1941 the Red Army had four times as many tanks as the Wehrmacht and their tanks were seemingly superior yet the Wehrmacht won the border battles with extraordinary ease The Red Army's tank force was pushed aside and for the most

Building Guderian's Duck: Germany's Response To The Eastern Front Antitank Crisis, 1941 To 1945 L-Commander Scott M. Chafian,2014-08-15 The appearance of the T 34 in 1941 caused a crisis for German antitank forces Existing antitank guns were nearly impotent against the new Russian tank while anti-aircraft and artillery pieces though successful when pressed into action were insufficiently mobile to accompany mechanized forces The German Army Ordnance Office the Heereswaffenamt was responsible for development of new weapons and would be responsible for countering the threat of Russian armor The Heereswaffenamt would need to not only counter the T 34 but also do so in an environment of shifting political relationships and with an increasingly stressed industrial system Utilizing lessons from the bitterly contested battlefields of western Russia the Heereswaffenamt developed a tank destroyer the Jagdpanzer IV using the existing chassis of the Panzer IV tank and the guns of both the Panzer IV and Panther tanks The Jagdpanzer IV known by its crews as Guderian's Duck proved to be a capable tank killer against both the T 34 threat of 1941 and 1942 as well as the improved versions of 1943 and 1944 Stug III & Stug IV Dennis Oliver,2019-03-30 A guide that blends the history behind this German World War II tank with resources for military vehicle modeling enthusiasts In the last years of the Second World War the Sturmgeschütz III StuG III and Sturmgeschütz IV StuG IV played a vital role as assault guns during the German army's struggle to block the Allied advance on the Western Front As the Wehrmacht's tank forces declined these armored vehicles were thrown into every defensive operation They are not as well known as the Tigers and Panthers but German resistance would have been much weaker without them They were also among the most frequently encountered German armored vehicles on the battlefields which is why they are such a fascinating subject for Dennis Oliver in this volume in the TankCraft series He uses archive photos and extensively researched color illustrations to examine the StuG III and StuG IV deployed by the German army and the Waffen SS during these doomed campaigns A key section of his book displays available model kits and aftermarket products complemented by a gallery of beautifully constructed and painted models in various scales Technical details as well as modifications introduced during production and in the field are also examined providing everything the modeler needs to recreate an accurate representation of these historic armored vehicles Weapons and Warfare Spencer C. Hitler's Tank Killer Hans Seidler, 2010-08-19 Sturmgeschtz III was originally designed as an assault weapon but as war progressed it was increasingly used in a defensive role and evolved into an assault gun and tank destroyer By 1943 its main role was providing anti tank support to the units in its area of operation This consequently led to many StuGs being destroyed in battle Nonetheless they were very successful as tank killers and destroyed among others many bunkers pillboxes and other defenses While not considered to be a true tank because it lacked a turret the gun was mounded directly in the hull with a low profile to reduce vehicle heights and had a limited lateral traverse of a few degrees in either direction Thus the entire vehicle had to be turned in order to acquire targets Omitting the turret made production much simpler and less costly enabling greater numbers to be built Most assault guns were mounted on the chassis of a Panzer III or Panzer IV with the resultant model being called either a StuG III or StuG IV respectively The StuG was one of the most effective tracked vehicles of World War II and over 10 000 of them were eventually produced
