History of Padang Lawas 2 Cahier d'Archipel 43, 2015-02-05 For the last century and a half the name of Padang Lawas in the present province of North Sumatra Indonesia has been associated with a number of isolated Hindu Buddhist remains located in the interior of the island These remains are all the more remarkable because they form the largest Indianised archaeological complex known so far in the northern half of Sumatra This book follows the recently published volume on archaeological researches conducted at the Si Pamutung site from 2006 until 2010 Its two main purposes are firstly to present and reappraise all the available sources for the ancient history of the region and secondly to provide an initial synthesis of the history of Padang Lawas between the mid ninth and the end of the thirteenth century CE As no comprehensive inventory of sculptures and other artefacts reported since the mid nineteenth century had been published the first chapter attempts to fill this gap by providing descriptions of 264 items It is followed by four systematic studies on dozens of these items whether stone or bronze artefacts Furthermore the thirteen ancient inscriptions from Padang Lawas are systematically reinvestigated or are deciphered for the first time To this epigraphic study is associated a historical study on the indigenous writing system Two chapters present on the one hand the main results of recent archaeological research conducted in two other sites of the Barumun River Basin and on the other a panorama of archaeological data on the Mandailing Natal region situated west of Padang Lawas in order to get a comprehensive and updated overview of the knowledge currently available of the area between both coasts of this part of Sumatra In addition the epigraphic study on Padang Lawas is supplemented with a reappraisal of inscriptions from Mt Sorik Merapi in this Mandailing Natal region and inscriptions from the site of Muara Takus on the banks of the upper reaches of the Kampar River

Buddhist Art in South-east Asia Reginald Le May, 2004

Buddhist Architecture Huu Phuoc Le, 2010 The volume thoroughly examines the origins and principal types of Buddhist architecture in Asia primarily between the third century BCE twelfth century CE with an emphasis on India It aims to construct shared architectural traits and patterns along with the derivative relationships between Indian and Asian Buddhist monuments It also discusses the historical antecedents in the Indus Civilization and the religious and philosophical foundations of the three schools of Buddhism and its founder Buddha Previously obscure topics such as Aniconic and Vajrayana Tantric architecture and the four holiest sites of Buddhism will also be covered in this comprehensive volume The author further investigates the influences of Buddhist architecture upon

Islamic Christian and Hindu architecture that have been overlooked by past scholars Early Interactions Between South and Southeast Asia Pierre-Yves Manguin,A. Mani,Geoff Wade,2011 This book takes stock of the results of some two decades of intensive archaeological research carried out on both sides of the Bay of Bengal in combination with renewed approaches to textual sources and to art history To improve our understanding of the trans cultural process commonly referred to as Indianisation it brings together specialists of both India and Southeast Asia in a fertile inter disciplinary confrontation Most of the essays reappraise the millennium long historiographic no man s land during which exchanges between the two shores of the Bay of Bengal led among other processes to the Indianisation of those parts of the region that straddled the main routes of exchange Some essays follow up these processes into better known classical times or even into modern times showing that the localisation process of Indian themes has long remained at work allowing local societies to produce their own social space and express their own ethos Việt Nam Heidi Tan,Asian Civilisations Museum

(Singapore),2008 This collection focuses on one of Asia's fastest growing economies Vietnam from its mythical origins to the rising economic power it has become today Readers will be able to explore Vietnam's unique cultural identity as seen in the diverse material cultures that developed over the past 2 500 years This rich legacy is the result of different cultural influences which were absorbed and adapted The advanced bronze technology of the Dong Son culture of northern Vietnam some 2 500 years ago shared similarities with Chinese traditions and was also exported to other parts of Southeast Asia The Viet culture of the northern Red River region was heavily influenced by China during the first 1 000 years of the common era when the region was under Chinese rule In central Vietnam the Hindu Buddhist kingdom of Champa left an important legacy of temples and sculpture inspired by Indian traditions In the highlands and other remote areas tribal communities involved in cross border trade also engaged in the process of cross cultural adaptation This book showcases important pieces from national museums around Vietnam including archaeological materials sculpture textiles and ethnographic objects
