Authority and Diplomacy from Dante to Shakespeare Jason Powell, William T. Rossiter, 2016-04-08 A detailed examination of the relationship between the discourses and practices of authority and diplomacy in the late medieval and early modern periods Authority and Diplomacy from Dante to Shakespeare interrogates the persistent duality of the roles of author and ambassador The volume approaches its subject from a literary historical perspective drawing upon late medieval and early modern ideas and discourses of diplomacy and authority and examining how they are manifested within different forms of writing drama poetry diplomatic correspondence peace treaties and household accounts Contributors focus on major literary figures from different cultures including Dante Petrarch and Tasso from Italy and from England Chaucer Wyatt Sidney Spenser and Shakespeare In addition the book moves between and across literary historical periods tracing the development of concepts and discourses of authority and diplomacy from the late medieval to the early modern period Taken together these essays forge a broader argument for the centrality of diplomacy and diplomatic concepts in the literature and culture of late medieval and early modern England and for the importance of diplomacy in current studies of English literature before 1603

Voice in Later Medieval English Literature David Lawton, 2017 David Lawton approaches later medieval English vernacular culture in terms of voice As texts and discourses shift in translation and in use from one language to another antecedent texts are revoiced in ways that recreate them as public interiorities without effacing their history or future The approach yields important insights into the voice work of late medieval poets especially Langland and Chaucer and also their fifteenth century successors who treat their work as they have treated their precursors It also helps illuminate vernacular religious writing and its aspirations and it addresses literary and cultural change such as the effect of censorship and increasing political instability in and beyond the fifteenth century Lawton also proposes his emphasis on voice as a literary tool of broad application and his book has a bold and comparative sweep that encompasses the Pauline letters Augustine's Confessions the classical precedents of Virgil and Ovid medieval contemporaries like Machaut and Petrarch extra literary artists like Monteverdi later poets such as Wordsworth Heaney and Paul Valéry and moderns such as Jarry and Proust What justifies such parallels the author claims is that late medieval texts constitute the foundation of a literary history of voice that extends to modernity The book's energy is therefore devoted to the transformative reading of later medieval texts in order to show their original and ongoing importance as voice work

The Inner Life of Women in Medieval Romance

Literature J. Rider, J. Friedman, 2011-08-14 Exploration of the emotionologies of several medieval romance emotional communities through both fictional and non fictional narratives The contributors analyze texts from different linguistic traditions and different periods but they all focus on women characters Imagining the Woman Reader in the Age of Dante Elena Lombardi, 2018 A study of the figure of the woman reader in medieval Italian literature that places her within the history of female literacy the material culture of the book and the ways in which writers and poets of earlier traditions imagined her Unsettling Montaigne Elizabeth Guild, 2014 Striking new readings of Montaigne's works focussing on such concepts as scepticism and tolerance Sixteenth-century Identities A. J. Piesse, 2001 Institutionalism has become one of the dominant strands of theory within contemporary political science Beginning with the challenge to behavioural and rational choice theory issued by March and Olsen institutional analysis has developed into an important alternative to more individualistic approaches to theory and analysis This body of theory has developed in a number of ways and perhaps the most commonly applied version in political science is historical institutionalism that stresses the importance of path dependency in shaping institutional behaviour The fundamental question addressed in this book newly available in paperback is whether institutionalism is useful for the various sub disciplines within political science to which it has been applied and to what extent the assumptions inherent to institutional analysis can be useful for understanding the range of behaviour of individuals and structures in the public sector The book consists of a set of strong essays by noted international scholars from a range of sub disciplines within the field of political science each analysing their area of research from an institutionalist perspective and assessing what contributions this form of theorising has made and can make to that research The result is a balanced and nuanced account of the role of institutions in contemporary political science and a set of suggestions for the further development of institutional theory The Sense of Sound Emma Dillon, 2012-04-27 The Sense of Sound is a radical recontextualization of French song 1260 1330 Situating musical sound against sonorities of the city madness charivari and prayer it argues that the effect of verbal confusion popular in music abounds with audible associations and that there was meaning in what is often heard as nonsensical Alone Together Henry Berlin, 2021-07-05 Alone Together reinterprets the explosion of sentimental poetry and prose in fifteenth century Iberia Songs of the Troubadours and Trouveres Samuel N. Rosenberg, Margaret Switten, Gerard Le Vot, 2013-09-05 First Published in 1998 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Love and Death in Medieval French and Occitan Courtly Literature Simon Gaunt, 2006-02-16 Some of medieval culture's most arresting images and stories inextricably associate love and death Thus the troubadour Jaufre Rudel dies in the arms of the countess of Tripoli having loved her from afar without ever having seen her Or in Marie de France's Chevrefoil Tristan and Iseult's fatal love is hauntingly symbolized by the fatally entwined honeysuckle and hazel And who could forget the ethereal spectacle of the Damoisele of Escalot's body carried to Camelot on a supernatural funerary boat with a letter on her breast explaining how her unrequited love for Lancelot killed her Medieval literature is fascinated with the idea that love may be a fatal affliction. Indeed it is frequently suggested that true love requires sacrifice that you must be ready to die for from and in love. Love in other words is represented sometimes explicitly as a form of martyrdom a notion that is repeatedly reinforced by courtly literature's borrowing of religious vocabulary and imagery. The paradigm of the martyr to love has of course remained compelling in the early modern and modern period. This book seeks to explore what is at stake in medieval literature's preoccupation with love's martyrdom. Informed by modern theoretical approaches particularly Lacanian psychoanalysis and Jacques Derrida's work on ethics it offers new readings of a wide range of French and Occitan courtly texts from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries and argues that a new secular ethics of desire emerges from courtly literature because of its fascination with death. This book also examines the interplay between lyric and romance in courtly literary culture and shows how courtly literature's predilection for sacrificial desire imposes a repressive sex gender system that may then be subverted by fictional women and queers who either fail to die on cue or who die in troublesome and disruptive ways.

Courtly Contradictions Sarah Kay, 2001 Where does courtly literature come from? What is the meaning of courtly love? What is the relation between religious and secular culture in the Middle Ages and why does it matter? This book addresses these questions by way of contradiction which is central both to medieval logic and to most modern protocols of reading.

Desire by Gender and Genre in Trouvère Song Helen Dell, 2008 Unspoken desire in trouvère song. This study brings the songs of the trouvères to an encounter with Lacanian psychoanalytic theories of signification sexual difference and unconscious desire. In trouvère song desire functions as a means of generic and genderic differentiation. The trouvères distinguished between sexual need or lust and desire the latter usually confined to the masculine voice in high style. Less exalted persons in whose company women were already implicitly included appear as incapable of desire in the fin'amors register. Critics have treated the issue of desire as represented in the courtly chanson but because criticism has followed the trouvères' distinction between desire and need discussion of desire has been limited to songs in the courtly register rather than across the system of genres. Desire in Lacan's sense that is unconscious desire is present in all genres and voices and this book unearths the unspoken desires of trouvère song by an attention to the characteristic means by which subjects subvert their demands in different genres.

HELEN DELL is a research fellow in English Literary Studies in the School of Culture and Communication University of Melbourne.

Gender and Voice in Medieval French Literature and Song Rachel May Golden, Katherine Kong, 2021-10-12 This volume brings together literary and musical compositions of medieval France identifying the use of voice in these works as a way of articulating gendered identities.

The Making of Romantic Love William M. Reddy, 2024-05-31 In the twelfth century the Catholic Church attempted a thoroughgoing reform of marriage and sexual behavior aimed at eradicating sexual desire from Christian lives. Seeking a refuge from the very serious condemnations of the Church and relying on a courtly culture that was already preoccupied with honor and secrecy European poets romance writers and lovers devised a vision of love as something quite different from desire Romantic love was thus born as a movement of covert resistance In The Making of Romantic Love Longing and Sexuality in Europe South Asia and Japan William M Reddy illuminates the birth of a cultural movement that managed to regulate selfish desire and render it innocent or innocent enough Reddy strikes out from this historical moment on an international exploration of love contrasting the medieval development of romantic love in Europe with contemporaneous eastern traditions in Bengal and Orissa and in Heian Japan from 900 1200 CE where one finds no trace of an opposition between love and desire In this comparative framework Reddy tells an appealing tale about the rise and fall of various practices of longing underscoring the uniqueness of the European concept of sexual desire
