Milligan,2014-09-24 Hair Headwear and Orthodox Jewish Women comments on hair covering based on an ethnographic study of the lives of Orthodox Jewish women in a small non metropolitan synagogue It brings the often overlooked stories of these women to the forefront and probes questions as to how their location in a small community affects their behavioral choices particularly regarding the folk practice of hair covering A kallah or bride makes the decision as to whether or not she will cover her hair after marriage In doing so she externally announces her religious affiliation in particular her commitment to maintaining an Orthodox Jewish home Hair covering practices are also unique to women s traditions and point out the importance of examining the women especially because their cultural roles may be marginalized in studies as a result of their lack of a central role in worship This study questions their contribution to Orthodoxy as well as their concept of Jewish identity and the ways in which they negotiate this identity with ritualized and traditional behavior ultimately bringing into question the meaning of tradition in a modern world

Grabowski, 2020-02-28 The robust Jewish community of Cleveland Ohio is the largest Midwestern Jewish community with about 80 000 Jewish residents Historically it has been one of the largest hubs of American Jewish life outside of the East Coast Yet there is a critical gap in the literature relating to Jewish Cleveland its suburbs and the Midwestern Jewish experience Cleveland s Jews in the Urban Midwest remedies this gap and adds to an emerging subfield in American Jewish history that moves away from the East Coast to explore Jewish life across the United States in cities including Chicago and Detroit and across regions like the West Coast Cleveland s Jews in the Urban Midwest
