Success In Answering Reference Questions Two Studies:

Success in Answering Reference Questions Frances Benham, Ronald R. Powell, 1987 This volume reports two studies of reference accuracy in which participant data were gathered and examined Library Users and Reference Services Linda S Katz, 2013-05-13 This useful book helps reference librarians understand the information seeking needs and behaviors of the diverse groups of people in the communities they serve With the increasing diversity of the American population librarians striving to plan and deliver excellent reference services must enhance their understanding of how best to assist many types of individuals and groups from children to the elderly Library Users and Reference Services provides much needed help in this area delivering strategies and methods to aid readers in their quest for increasingly effective service for all members of the communities in which they work Library Users and Reference Services is divided into four sections of chapters which cover a broad range of topics to assist readers in planning and delivering appropriate services Section One explores customer service economics of information and marketing as key concepts useful in studying information needs of specific groups in the population Section Two focuses on scholars and students in three broad academic disciplines science humanities and social sciences Section Three covers groups with special characteristics such as age economic standing gender or profession Section Four discusses evaluation and provides guidance in the use of the most widely accepted measures for assessing reference effectiveness The book's final chapter explores redesigning reference services for the future providing a glimpse of how such services may change Library Users and Reference Services is a practical guide to help readers understand the many issues related to serving diverse populations in a community Reference librarians and graduate library school students and faculty will learn more effective ways to help a heterogeneous public with the help of this new book Evaluation of Reference Services Linda S Katz, 2013-10-18 Library authorities address the increasing significance of reference services and the increasing need for evaluation of those services to further ensure professionalism and efficiency Theory Development in the Information Sciences Diane H. Sonnenwald, 2016-03-08 Emerging as a discipline in the first half of the twentieth century the information sciences study how people groups organizations and governments create share disseminate manage search access evaluate and protect information as well as how different technologies and policies can facilitate and constrain these activities Given the broad span of the information sciences it is perhaps not surprising that there is no consensus regarding its underlying theory the purposes of it the types of it or how one goes about developing new theories to talk about new research questions Diane H Sonnenwald and the contributors to this volume seek to shed light on these issues by sharing reflections on the theory development process These reflections are not meant to revolve around data collection and analysis rather they focus on the struggles challenges successes and excitement of developing theories The particular theories that the contributors explore in their essays range widely from theories of literacy and reading to theories of design and digital search Several chapters engage with theories of the behavior of individuals and groups some deal with processes of evaluation others reflect on questions of design and the rest treat cultural and scientific heritage The ultimate goal Sonnenwald writes in her introduction is to encourage inspire and assist individuals striving to develop and or teach theory development
