Voyages and Travels of Capt. Abel Sampson, in Europe, Asia and Africa together with his captivity in Spain and Africa. Related by himself, written [edited] by E. H. Kendall, etc Abel SAMPSON, 1852. European Traditions in the Study of Religion in Africa Ulrich Berner, Christoph Boehinger, 2004. This volume comprises case studies of five centuries of European encounters with and imaginations of Africa encompassing her triple religious heritage: African Traditional Religions, Christianity, and Islam. The introductory chapters outline the challenges and present overviews; some of them also analyze the early accounts of European travelers and missionaries. The following contributions examine the lasting legacy of the European Enlightenment in employing an ambivalent language of human equality and universalism while in actual fact consigning Africa to an inferior position. It has been difficult for western scholars to divorce themselves wholly from the perceptions thus established. However, there have been quite different approaches. This is indicated in the papers discussing the role and impact of influential European academics, scholars of religion, theologians, historians, and social scientists during the colonial and postcolonial period. Other contributions examine specific institutional centers of African religious studies in Europe. The concluding chapters critically assess European approaches and their use for the study of religion in Africa from an African perspective.

The Story of Captain Riley, and His Adventures in Africa Samuel Goodrich, 2016-02-08. In this book, originally published in 1834, a professional writer retells the story of James Riley (1777-1840) who was the Captain of the United States merchant ship Commerce. Riley led his crew through the Sahara Desert after they were shipwrecked off the coast of Moroccan Western Sahara in August 1815 and wrote a memoir about their ordeal. This true story describes how they came to be shipwrecked and their travails in the Sahara Desert. The book, published in 1817 and originally titled Authentic Narrative of the Loss of the American Brig Commerce by the Late Master and Supercargo James Riley is modernly republished as Sufferings in Africa. The book struck the nineteenth century reader because it was a startling switch on the then usual master slave relationship which was white owners and black slaves. Lost in this unknown world Captain Riley felt responsible for his crew and their safety. He told of the events leading to their capture by marauding Sahrawi natives who kept them as slaves. Horribly mistreated they were beaten, sun burnt, starved and forced to drink their own and camel urine. A slave would be worked until close to death and then either traded or killed. Once back on shore Riley devoted himself to anti slavery work but eventually returned to a life at sea where he died of sickness in his sixties. The lives of his crew were foreshortened no doubt from complications caused by their hardships in the African desert. The last surviving crewman was the cabin boy who lived to be 82. In 1851 G Brewster published the Sequel to Riley's Narrative Being a Sketch of Interesting Incidents in the Life Voyages and Travels of Capt James Riley from the Period of His Return to His Native Land After His Shipwreck Captivity and Sufferings Among the Arabs of the Desert as Related in His Narrative Until His Death. Captain James Riley's story has served as the basis for several relatively recent published books: Skeletons on the Zahara: A True Story of Survival by Dean King published in 2004 and Sufferings in Africa: The Incredible True Story of a Shipwreck, Enslavement and Survival on the Sahara published in 2007. This book published in 1834 has been reformatted.

God in South Africa Albert Nolan, 2024-02-01. This is a reprint of the 1988 publication which is now out of print. The book was written while Albert Nolan was in hiding during the State of Emergency in South Africa. This volume includes reviews of the book used with permission from the South African Grace and Truth journal from 1990. The author believes that in South Africa the practice of the struggle is the practice of faith and to show this he reviews the central themes of the Christian faith as found in the Old Testament and the preaching of Jesus: the nature of sin and salvation and of God's action in the world. He also faces the dilemma of Christians who can no longer support the apartheid state but are uncertain where the liberation struggle will lead. Like his best selling Jesus before Christianity, God in South Africa is a contextual theology, a theology rooted in the painful conversion of a church to the cause of liberation. It can be regarded, the author says, as a conversation between South African Christians but out of that conversation comes a challenge to Christians everywhere to discover the meaning of the gospel to find God in their situation. This profound book, written in the 1980s to guide those seeking to deploy the gospel message against the repressive and abhorrent South African apartheid regime, continues to speak powerfully to all peoples in all times and in all places. It continues to show how the gospels respond to the signs of the times anywhere that people are in crisis, providing the tools to build a contextualised and local theology that can preach the good news of God's liberating power against all forms of injustice. Albert Nolan, South Africa's Gustavo Gutierrez, revealed hope that God cares for and finds the poor and oppressed wherever they are. For my own community the potential to construct a contextualised and local Ukrainian theology offers hope that the good news always challenges those who oppress and forever speaks liberation for those burdened by an unjust war and the despair found in its wake.
