Successful Strategic Planning New Directions For Institutional Research:

Successful Strategic Planning Michael Dooris, John Kelley, James F. Trainer, 2004-12-21 Planning reflects the human appetite to improve our condition In higher education improving one's condition includes hiring better faculty recruiting stronger students upgrading facilities strengthening academic programs and student services and acquiring the resources needed to accomplish these things The strategic part of strategic planning involves shaping the institution in ways that will ensure mission attainment by capturing and maintaining a market niche in the competition for resources faculty and students This is the 123rd issue of the Jossey Bass higher education report New Directions for Institutional Research New

Directions for Institutional Research, 2000 The Handbook of Institutional Research Richard D. Howard, Gerald W. McLaughlin, William E. Knight, 2012-06-28 Institutional research is more relevant today than ever before as growing pressures for improved student learning and increased institutional accountability motivate higher education to effectively use ever expanding data and information resources As the most current and comprehensive volume on the topic the Handbook describes the fundamental knowledge techniques and strategies that define institutional research The book contains an overview of the profession and its history examines how institutional research supports executive and academic leadership and governance and discusses the varied ways data from federal state and campus sources are used by research professionals With contributions from leading experts in the field this important resource reviews the analytic tools techniques and methodologies used by institutional researchers in their professional practice and covers a wide range of topics such as conducting institutional research statistical applications comparative analyses quality control systems measuring student faculty and staff opinions and management activities designed to improve organizational effectiveness

Strategic Leadership Richard L. Morrill, 2010-04-16 Strategic Leadership addresses deep and continuing issues relating to strategy governance management and leadership in higher education during a period of rapid change Each of these themes is at the heart of current debates about the capacity of universities to respond to new expectations market realities reduced state funding globalization technology and a long list of other challenges Dealing with these issues can immobilize colleges and universities or it can cause them to become so market driven that they will sacrifice their own legacy of academic values This book places strategic planning in a new conceptual framework that is oriented to interactive leadership rooted in human agency and values It will assist academic professionals stakeholders such as trustees and students of higher education to better understand and use strategic planning as an effective process and as a method of collaborative leadership

Academic Leadership and Governance of Higher Education James T. Harris, Jason E. Lane, Jeffrey C. Sun, Gail F. Baker, 2023-07-03 Winner of the 2012 ASHE CAHEP Barbara Townsend Lecture Award To prosper and thrive in an increasingly unpredictable national and global environment U S higher education will need to adapt innovate and evolve once again as it has during every major societal change over the past four centuries The purpose of this new edition published a turbulent decade after the first is to provide institutional leaders from department chairs to trustees with a broad understanding of the academic enterprise strategic guidance and key principles to assist them in navigating the future and drive the success of their institutions as they confront the unimagined Recognizing that the hallmark of higher education in the U S is the diversity of institution types each of which is affected differently by external and internal influences the authors provide examples and ideas drawn from the spectrum of colleges and universities in the not for profit sector This book covers the major functions and constituent departments and units within institutions the stakeholders from students and faculty through the echelons of administration the external environment of elected officials foundations philanthropists and the new changing media and innovations in teaching technology data analytics legal frameworks as well as economic demographic and political pressures The book is informed by the proposition that adhering to four principles which the authors identify as having enabled institutions of higher education to successfully navigate ever changing and volatile pasts will enable them to flourish in the coming decades The four principles are 1 Be mission centric by making all key decisions based on a core mission and set of values 2 Be able to adapt to environmental change in alignment with the mission and core values 3 Be committed to democratic ideals by seeking to promote them and modeling democratic practices on and off campus 4 Be models for inclusion equity and positive social change

Coming in from the Margins Connie Schroeder, 2023-07-03 Why is it critical for faculty development centers to reexamine their core mission today The core argument of this book that a necessary and significant role change is underway in faculty development is a call for centers to merge the traditional responsibilities and services of the past several decades with a leadership role as organizational developers Failing collectively to define and outline the dimensions and expertise of this new role puts centers at risk of not only marginalization but of dissolution When a TLC is busy and in demand it is hard to believe that it may be despite all the activity and palpable array of daily outcomes institutionally marginalized The actual and increasing potential of marginalization and center closings may help motivate this field to recognize the danger of complacency or remaining stuck in an old paradigm that exclusively defines itself as instructional development or supportive service Proposing a newly defined organizational development role for academic and faculty developers and directors of teaching and learning centers Coming in from the Margins examines how significant involvement in broader institutional change initiatives is becoming a critical aspect of this work Although undefined and unrecognized as a significant dimension of this work the organizational development role increasingly demanded of developers is far more attuned with the demand for change facing higher education than ever before The book provides evidence based research into what directors of centers are currently doing as organizational developers and how they shape influence and plan institutional initiatives that intersect with teaching and learning Directors of centers their supervisors and leaders in the field provide models from a wide range of institutional contexts as well as the strategies they have employed to successfully engage in significant organizational development They also demonstrate how they handled the challenges that ensued The strategies in each chapter provide a practical resource and guide for re examining the mission and structure of existing centers or for designing new centers of teaching and learning and most importantly to develop their role as change agents The book covers such topics as Center mission statements Center staffing Center advisory boards committee involvement unique expertise knowledge and skills embedding Centers in strategic planning Center vision organizational change processes collaboration and partnerships institutional priorities and initiatives relationships with upper administration
