Writing Vietnam, Writing Life Tobey C. Herzog, 2009-05 Phillip Caputo Larry Heinemann Tim O'Brien and Robert Olen Butler four young midwestern Americans coming of age during the 1960s who faced a difficult personal decision whether or not to fight in Vietnam Each chose to participate After coming home these four veterans became prizewinning authors telling the war stories and life stories of soldiers and civilians The four extended conversations included in Writing Vietnam Writing Life feature revealing personal stories alongside candid assessments of each author's distinct roles as son soldier writer and teacher of creative writing As Tobey Herzog's thoughtful interviews reveal these soldier authors have diverse upbringings values interests writing careers life experiences and literary voices They hold wide ranging views on among other things fatherhood war the military religion the creative process the current state of the world and the nature of both physical and moral courage For each author the conversation and richly annotated chronology provide an overview of the writer's life the intersection of memory and imagination in his writing and the path of his literary career Together these four life stories also offer mini tableaux of the fascinating and troubling time of 1960s and 1970s America Above all the conversations reveal that each author is linked forever to the Vietnam War the country of Vietnam and its people "Reading the Wind" Timothy J. Lomperis, John Clark Pratt, 1987 The decade following the American defeat in Vietnam has been filled with doubts about American politics and values confusion over the lessons of the war and anger about the physical and psychological suffering that occurred during the war as well as thereafter In the years since the U S withdrawal our need to make sense of Vietnam has prompted an outpouring of thinking and writing from scholarly reappraisals of American foreign policy to highly personal accounts of participants On the tenth anniversary of the final U S withdrawal the Asia Society sponsored a conference on the Vietnam experience in American literature at which leading writers critics publishers commentators and academics wrestled with this phenomenon Drawing on the synergy of this conference Timothy J Lomperis has produced an original work that focuses on the growing body of literature including novels personal accounts and oral histories which describes the experiences of American soldiers in Vietnam as well as the experience of veterans upon their return home
