Cree and Christian Clinton N. Westman, 2022 2022 Choice Outstanding Academic Title Shortlisted for the 2023 Saskatchewan Book Award for Scholarly Writing Cree and Christian develops and applies new ethnographic approaches for understanding the reception and indigenization of Christianity particularly through an examination of Pentecostalism in northern Alberta Clinton N Westman draws on historical records and his own long term ethnographic research in Cree communities to explore questions of historical change cultural continuity linguistic practices in ritual and the degree to which Indigenous identity is implicated

by Pentecostal commitments Such complexity calls for constant negotiation and improvisation key elements of Pentecostal worship and speech strategies that have been compared to jazz modes The historical sweep of Cree and Christian considers the dynamics of Pentecostal conversion in relation to the strengths and weaknesses of other denominations and the underlying foundation of Cree cosmological worldviews Pentecostalism has remained open to recognizing the power of spirits while also benefiting from its own essential flexibility Pentecostals often seek to gain a degree of temporal and spiritual autonomy and authority that may not have seemed possible under previous Christian practices or Cree traditions Cree and Christian is the first book to provide a fully historicized account of Indigenous Pentecostalism connecting contemporary religious practices and pluralism to historical Pentecostal Evangelical Catholic and mainstream Protestant missions since the nineteenth century By tracing religious practices and discourses since the 1890s Westman paints a picture of the transformations and encounters from the earliest conversions and resistance to today's pluralistic mediatized and bilingual religious landscape

An Ethnohistorian in Rupert's Land Jennifer S. H. Brown, 2017-08-10 In 1670 the ancient homeland of the Cree and Ojibwe people of Hudson Bay became known to the English entrepreneurs of the Hudson's Bay Company as Rupert's Land after the founder and absentee landlord Prince Rupert For four decades Jennifer S. H. Brown has examined the complex relationships that developed among the newcomers and the Algonquian communities who hosted and tolerated the fur traders and later the missionaries anthropologists and others who found their way into Indigenous lives and territories The eighteen essays gathered in this book explore Brown's investigations into the surprising range of interactions among Indigenous people and newcomers as they met or observed one another from a distance and as they competed compromised and rejected or adapted to change While diverse in their subject matter the essays have thematic unity in their focus on the old HBC territory and its peoples from the 1600s to the present More than an anthology the chapters of An Ethnohistorian in Rupert's Land provide examples of Brown's exceptional skill in the close study of texts including oral documents images artifacts and other cultural expressions The volume as a whole represents the scholarly evolution of one of the leading ethnohistorians in Canada and the United States

They Knew Both Sides of Medicine, 2000-11-22 Born in 1912 Alice Ahenakew was brought up in a traditional Cree community in north central Saskatchewan As a young woman she married Andrew Ahenakew a member of the prominent Saskatchewan family who later became an Anglican clergyman and a prominent healer Alice Ahenakew's personal reminiscences include stories of her childhood courtship and marriage as well as an account of the 1928 influenza epidemic and encounters with a windigo The centrepiece of this book is the fascinating account of Andrew Ahenakew's bear vision through which he received healing powers Written in original Cree text with a full English translation They Knew both Sides of Medicine also includes an introduction discussing the historical background of the narrative and its style and rhetorical structure as well as a complete Cree English glossary

Determinants of Indigenous Peoples' Health Sarah De Leeuw,2015 The health disparities affecting Indigenous peoples in Canada might well be understood as a national epidemic Although progress has been made in the last decade towards both understanding and ameliorating Indigenous health inequalities very little research or writing has expanded a social determinants of health framework to account for the unique histories and present realities of Indigenous peoples in this country This timely edited collection addresses this significant knowledge gap exploring the ways that multiple health determinants beyond the social from colonialism to geography from economy to biology converge to impact the health status of Indigenous peoples in Canada This unique collection comprised largely of contributions by Indigenous authors offers the voices and expertise of First Nations Inuit and Metis writers from across Canada The multitude of health determinants of Indigenous peoples are considered in a selection of chapters that range from scholarly papers by research experts in the field to reflective essays by Indigenous leaders. Appropriate throughout a range of disciplines including Health Studies, Indigenous Studies, Public and Population Health, Community Health, Sciences, Medicine, Nursing, and Social Work, this engaging text broadens the social determinants of health framework to better understand health inequality. Most importantly, it does so by placing front and center the voices and experiences of Indigenous peoples.
