The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management Sue Kidd,Andy Plater,Chris Frid,2012-08-06 The marine environment is one of our most precious yet fragile natural resources It provides a wide range of essential goods and services including food regulation of climate and nutrient cycling as well as a setting for transport recreation and tourism This environment is however extremely complex and very sensitive to development pressures and other forms of human influence Planning and management of the sea are similarly complicated reflecting intricate legal institutional and ownerships patterns This creates a situation where marine ecosystems are vulnerable to over exploitation or neglect The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management describes how growing concern about the state of our seas is resulting in the development of new approaches to marine planning and management For example the United Nations Environment Programme has called for the widespread introduction of Marine Spatial Planning MSP and the European Union has recently been consulting on a new European Maritime Policy designed to stimulate economic growth but at the same time protect the resource base Within the United Kingdom the 2010 Marine Act draws upon the experience of town and country planning and brings into being a new system of Marine Spatial Planning The authors show that a common feature of all these developments is an appreciation that more integrated forms of planning and management are required for our seas and that new arrangements must draw together understanding from natural science social science and many other perspectives Adopting such a trans disciplinary and holistic or ecosystems approach the book distils the expertise of these different disciplines and seeks to promote a broader understanding of the origins and practicalities of new approaches to marine planning and management

Government Reports Index ,1973 Annual Report Pursuant to Water Resources Act of 1964 United States.

Office of Water Resources Research,1974 Foreign Direct Investment and Urban Growth in China Lei Wang,2016-04-15

This book puts forward an institutional explanation of the recent dynamics of foreign direct investment FDI in China It argues that the concentration of FDI in the Chinese manufacturing economy since the beginning of this century is largely the result of China s entrepreneurial urban growth strategy which was in turn motivated by the overall political and fiscal structures of China and was facilitated by urban land use under the manipulation of municipalities By identifying the interactions between cross border capital flow national regulations and local responses this book not only provides a fresh understanding of China s FDI pattern from an urban perspective that has been rare among publications on similar topics but also sheds light on the drivers underlying China s rapid economic growth and its implications for sustainable development It also stands as a useful reference for other countries and regions that plan to launch their own state led development projects Annual Report -
