Sunset Sensation:

Evidence and Religious Belief Kelly James Clark, Raymond J. VanArragon, 2011-07-28 A fundamental question in philosophy of religion is whether religious belief must be based on evidence in order to be properly held In recent years two prominent positions on this issue have been staked out evidentialism which claims that proper religious belief requires evidence and Reformed epistemology which claims that it does not Evidence and Religious Belief contains eleven chapters by prominent philosophers which push the discussion in new directions The volume has three parts The first part explores the demand for evidence some chapters object to it while others seek to restate it or find space for compromise between Reformed epistemology and evidentialism The second part explores ways in which beliefs are related to evidence that is ways in which the evidence for or against religious belief that is available to a person can depend on that person's background beliefs and other circumstances The third part contains chapters that discuss actual evidence for and against religious belief Evidence for belief in God includes the so called common consent of the human race and the way that such belief makes sense of the moral life evidence against it includes profound puzzles about divine freedom which suggest that it is impossible for a being to be morally perfect The Canadian National Record for Swine, 1923 Duroc-Jersey Swine Record National Duroc Record Association, 1921 Holstein-Friesian Herd-book Holstein-Friesian Association of America, 1929

Decadence Pirjo Lyytikäinen, Riikka Rossi, Viola Parente-Čapková, Mirjam Hinrikus, 2019-07-11 Nordic Literature of Decadence fills a gap on the map of world literature and participates in a thriving area of research by extending the investigation of broadly understood fin de siècle decadence to unexplored areas of Nordic literature which remain practically unknown to Anglophone audiences In the Nordic countries the new Parisian movements were seen as having caused a malicious invasion a black flood that was spreading over the North destroying the very foundations of Nordic national cultures Nevertheless the appeal of this controversial movement was irresistible to discontents and innovators even in countries where the old moral religious and nationalist atmosphere still retained its stranglehold and modern urban industrial and social developments lagged behind that of the metropolises breeding this new literature and art The Nordic countries developed their own distinctive manifestations of decadence favouring allegorical and allusive forms local rural settings and depictions of primitive nature coupling the philosophical underpinnings of fin de siècle decadence with ancient Nordic mythology and rising national movements Nordic decadence thus became a distinctive and recognizable phenomenon which travelled back to France and other European countries influencing the ongoing debate on decadence as it was conducted on a global scale Nordic Literature of Decadence discusses literature from five Nordic countries Denmark Norway Sweden Finland and Estonia and offers additional and alternative perspectives to the cosmopolitan traffic and cultural exchanges of literary decadence that have been explored so far in the English language scholarship Holstein-Friesian Herd-book, Containing a Record of All Holstein-Friesian Cattle ... Holstein-Friesian Association of America, 1928 The Therapeutics of Facial and Sciatic Neuralgias Frederick H. between perception and the world it demonstrates the value of Merleau Ponty's insights for philosophy of perception today. The author focuses on two main topics: the contents and the nature of perception. In the first half of this book, the author tackles debates about the content of perception, namely what sorts of properties or features of the world reveal themselves to us in perception and in what modes. Drawing on Merleau Ponty's description of perceptual sense, the author argues that perception has a unique kind of content which cannot be adequately described in terms of sensations or concepts. He then shows how this account of perceptual sense can clarify debates about the richness of perceptual content, including whether we can perceive moral properties. In the second half, he turns to the nature of perception. Here he argues that Merleau Ponty's account of perceptual intentionality makes available a powerful combination of the core insights of two main contemporary approaches to this question: realism and intentionalism. The author shows how this combination can be developed, defends it from objections, and explains how it is equipped to deal with problems posed by the existence of illusions and hallucinations. Merleau Ponty and Contemporary Philosophy of Perception will appeal to scholars and advanced students working on phenomenology and the philosophy of perception.
