Studies In Anaphora Typological Studies In Language:

Studies in Language, 1995      Studies in Anaphora Barbara A. Fox, 1996 The last 15 years has seen an explosion of research on the topic of anaphora Studies of anaphora have been important to our understanding of cognitive processes the relationships between social interaction and grammar and of directionality in diachronic change The contributions to this volume represent the next generation of studies in anaphora defined broadly as those morpho syntactic forms available to speakers for formulating reference taking as their starting point the foundation of research done in the 1980s These studies examine in detail and with a richness of methods and theories what patterns of anaphoric usage can reveal to us about cognition social interaction and language change

Discourse Phenomena in Typological Perspective Alessandra Barotto, Simone Mattioli, 2023-03-15 This book aims at investigating discourse phenomena i e linguistic elements and constructions that help to manage the organization flow and outcome of communication from a typological and cross linguistic perspective Although it is a well established idea in functional typological approaches that grammar is shaped by discourse use systematic typological cross linguistic investigations on discourse phenomena are relatively rare This volume aims at bridging this gap by integrating different linguistic subfields such as discourse analysis pragmatics and typology The contributions both theoretically and empirically oriented focus on a broad variety of discourse phenomena ranging from discourse markers to discourse function of grammatical markers to strategies that manage the discourse and information flow while adopting a typological perspective and considering typologically distant languages      Compliments and

Compliment Responses Andrea Golato, 2005 This book analyzes compliments and compliment responses in naturally occurring talk in interaction in German Using Conversation Analytic methodology it views complimenting and responding to compliments as social actions which are co produced and negotiated among interactants This study is the first to analyze the entire complimenting sequence within the larger interactional context thereby demonstrating the interconnectedness of sequence organization turn design and varying function s of a turn In this regard the present study makes a novel contribution to the study of talk in interaction beyond German The book adds to existing work on interaction and grammar by closely analyzing the functions of linguistic resources used to design compliment turns and compliment responses Here the study extends previous Conversation Analytic work on person reference by including an analysis of inanimate object reference Lastly the book discusses the use and function of various particles and demonstrates how speaker alignments and misalignments are accomplished through various grammatical forms      A Grammar of Semelai Nicole Kruspe, 2004-04-08

Semelai is a previously undescribed and endangered Aslian Mon Khmer language of the Malay Peninsula This book the first in depth description of an Aslian language provides a comprehensive reference grammar of Semelai Semelai intertwines two types of morphological system a concatenative system of prefixes suffixes and a circumfix acquired through extended contact with Malay and a nonconcatenative system of prefixes and infixes including infix reduplication inherited from Mon Khmer

There are distinctive word classes Nominals Verbs and Expressives the latter iconic utterances which simultaneously provide information about the predicate and its arguments Semelai has many derivational processes which change word class or affect transitivity and it combines both head marking and dependent marking profiles It also has a rich phonemic system of 20 vowels and 32 consonants Nicole Kruspe's discussion is complemented with a generous number of illustrative examples and texts creating a reference work that will be welcomed by descriptivists and typologists alike

Cognitive Linguistics

Investigations June Luchjenbroers, 2006-06-01 The total body of papers presented in this volume captures research across a variety of languages and language groups to show how particular elements of linguistic description draw on otherwise separate aspects or fields of linguistic investigation As such this volume captures a diversity of research interest from the field of cognitive linguistics These areas include lexical semantics cognitive grammar metaphor prototypes pragmatics narrative and discourse computational and translation models and are considered within the contexts of language change child language acquisition language and culture grammatical features and word order and gesture Despite possible differences in philosophical approach to the role of language in cognitive tasks these papers are similar in a fundamental way they all share a commitment to the view that human categorization involves mental concepts that have fuzzy boundaries and are culturally and situation based

Grammaticalization and Language Change Kristin Davidse, Tine Breban, Lieselotte Brems, Tanja Mortelmans, 2012-10-30 This collective volume focuses on the latest developments in the study of grammaticalization and related processes of change such as degrammaticalization constructionalization lexicalization and petrification It addresses topical issues relating to the motivations sources defining features and outcomes of these changes New theoretical reflections are offered on the pragmatic motivation of grammaticalization paths process oriented differences between grammaticalization lexicalization and degrammaticalization the question of gradualness and pace of grammaticalization and deictics as a distinct source of grammaticalization The articles describe various constructional and distributional changes affecting deictics determiners reflexives clitics nouns affixes adverbs and auxiliary verbs mainly in the Germanic and Romance languages The volume will be of great interest to historical linguists working on grammaticalization and related changes and to all linguists working on the interface between morphosyntax semantics pragmatics and discourse

Essays on Language Function and Language Type Joan L. Bybee, John Haiman, Sandra A. Thompson, 1997-01-01 In their subject matter and in their theoretical orientation all the papers in this volume reflect the powerful influence of T Givón Most of them deal with questions of morphosyntactic typology pragmatics and grammaticalization theory Many of them are directly based on extensive fieldwork on local languages of the Americas Africa Asia and the Pacific Others are based on statistical analyses of extensive written and spoken corpora of texts

Ellipsis and Reference Tracking in Japanese

Shigeko Nariyama, 2003 Print begins with 10 sides and goes up to 40 sides per session

A Grammar of Luwo Anne Storch, 2014-10-15 This book is a description of Luwo a Western Nilotic language of South Sudan Luwo is used by multilingual dynamic communities of practice as one language among others that form individual and flexible repertoires. It is a language that serves as a means of expressing the Self as a medium of art and self actualization and sometimes as a medium of writing. It is spoken in the home and in public spaces by fairly large numbers of people who identify themselves as Luwo and as members of all kinds of other groups. In order to provide insights into these dynamic and diverse realities of Luwo, this book contains both a concise description and analysis of the linguistic features and structures of Luwo and an approach to the anthropological linguistics of this language. The latter is presented in the form of separate chapters on possession, number, experiencer constructions, spatial orientation, perception and cognition. In all sections of this study, sociolinguistic information is provided wherever this is useful and possible. Detailed information on the semantics of grammatical features and constructions is given and discussions of theory oriented approaches to various linguistic features of Luwo are presented.

A grammar of Kalamang Eline Visser, 2022. This book is a grammar of Kalamang, a Papuan language of western New Guinea in the east of Indonesia. It is spoken by around 130 people in the villages Mas and Antalisa on the biggest of the Karas Islands which lie just off the coast of Bomberai Peninsula. This work is the first comprehensive grammar of a Papuan language in the Bomberai area. It is based on eleven months of fieldwork. The primary source of data is a corpus of more than 15 hours of spoken Kalamang recorded and transcribed between 2015 and 2019. This grammar covers a wide range of topics beyond a phonological and morphosyntactic description including prosody, narrative styles and information structure. More than 1000 examples illustrate the analyses and are where possible taken from naturalistic spoken Kalamang. The descriptive approach in this grammar is informed by current linguistic theory but is not driven by any specific school of thought. Comparison to other West Bomberai or eastern Indonesian languages is taken into account whenever it is deemed helpful. Kalamang has several typologically interesting features such as unpredictable stress, minimalistic give constructions consisting of just two pronouns, aspectual markers that follow the subject and the NP and predicate rather than the noun and verb as important domains of attachment. This grammar is accompanied by an openly accessible archive of linguistic and cultural material and a dictionary with 2700 lemmas. It serves as a document of one of the world's many endangered languages.

A Grammar of Kunbarlang Ivan Kapitonov, 2021-07-05. This is a comprehensive linguistic description of Kunbarlang, a highly endangered polysynthetic language of northern Australia. Kunbarlang belongs to the non-Pama-Nyungan Gunwinyguan language family and is currently spoken by nearly 40 people. This work draws on elicitations and analysis of narratives from the author's original fieldwork 2015-2018 as well as those from previous recordings. The main areas covered are the sound system, morphology, syntax and aspects of lexical and constructional semantics. Dictated by the polysynthetic structure of the language and the patterns of its use, the principal focus of the work is the analysis of the verbal complex and the interaction between the verb and other constituents of the clause. The analysis strikes a balance between taking into consideration the areal and genetic context, being informed by linguistic typology and theory yet at the same time remaining data driven and theory neutral in the way generalisations are stated Against the Australian and a broader cross linguistic background Kunbarlang possesses remarkable features at all levels of its organisation

The 'Noun Phrase' across Languages Tsuyoshi Ono, Sandra A. Thompson, 2020-07-15 The NP is one of the least controversial grammatical units that linguists work with The NP is often assumed to be universal and appears to be robust cross linguistically compared to VP or even clause in that it can be manipulated in argument positions in constructed examples Furthermore for any given language its internal structure order and type of modifiers tends to be relatively fixed Surprisingly however the empirical basis for NP has never been established The chapters in this volume examine the NP in everyday interactions from diverse languages including little studied languages as well as better researched ones in a variety of interactional settings Together these chapters show that cross linguistically the category NP is not as robust as has been assumed in the context of temporally unfolding human interaction its structural status is constantly negotiated in terms of participants evolving social agendas

A grammar of Papuan Malay Angela Kluge, 2016-07-08 This book presents an in depth linguistic description of one Papuan Malay variety based on sixteen hours of recordings of spontaneous narratives and conversations between Papuan Malay speakers Papuan Malay refers to the easternmost varieties of Malay Austronesian They are spoken in the coastal areas of West Papua the western part of the island of New Guinea The variety described here is spoken along West Papua s northeast coast Papuan Malay is the language of wider communication and the first or second language for an ever increasing number of people of the area While Papuan Malay is not officially recognized and therefore not used in formal government or educational settings or for religious preaching it is used in all other domains including unofficial use in formal settings and to some extent in the public media After a general introduction to the language its setting and history this grammar discusses the following topics building up from smaller grammatical constituents to larger ones phonology word formation noun and prepositional phrases verbal and nonverbal clauses non declarative clauses and conjunctions and constituent combining Of special interest to linguists typologists and Malay specialists are the following in depth analyses and descriptions affixation and its productivity across domains of language choice reduplication and its gesamtbedeutung personal pronouns and their adnominal uses demonstratives and locatives and their extended uses and adnominal possessive relations and their non canonical uses This study provides a point of comparison for further studies in other Papuan Malay varieties and a starting point for Papuan Malay language development efforts

Grammar and Conceptualization Ronald W. Langacker, 2010-12-14 Grammar and Conceptualization documents some major developments in the theory of cognitive grammar during the last decade By further articulating the framework and showing its application to numerous domains of linguistic structure this book substantiates the claim that lexicon morphology and syntax form a gradation consisting of assemblies of symbolic structures form meaning pairings

World Lexicon of Grammaticalization Tania Kouteva, Bernd Heine, Bo Hong, 2019-08-08 Based on analysis of more than 1 000 languages this volume reconstructs more than 500 processes of grammatical change in the languages of the world      Meta-informative Centering in Utterances André Włodarczyk, Héléne Włodarczyk, 2013-12-15 The notion of information has nowadays become crucial both in our daily life and in many branches of science and technology In language studies this notion was used as a technical term for the first time about at least fifty years ago It is argued however that Old and New used traditionally for characterising information refer in fact to the meta informative status of communicated chunks of information They provide information about other information Since subjects and objects as attention driven phrases are also related to aboutness the presented Meta Informative Centering MIC framework includes predication theory By applying the MIC theory to their analyses of English German French Polish Russian Greek Latin and Japanese the authors provide comprehensive explanations of the most puzzling aspects of the pragmatic use of basic universal linguistic categories It seems clear now that canonical syntactic patterns their permutations and diverse transformations do indeed reflect very truly the meta informative encapsulation of utterances As a consequence this book presents new and coherent theoretical solutions as well as their very efficient applications      The Genesis of Grammar Bernd Heine, Tania Kuteva, 2007-10-04 This book reconstructs what the earliest grammars might have been and shows how they could have led to the languages of modern humankind It considers whether these languages derive from a single ancestral language what the structure of language was when it first evolved and how the properties associated with modern human languages first arose      Words and Processes in Mambila Kinship David Zeitlyn, 2005-01-01 Words and Processes in Mambila Kinship presents a set of studies of the way that Mambila speakers in Cameroon talk about themselves and their kin Author David Zeitlyn employs conversational analytic methods to further the study of kinship terminologies This book takes an important step toward a new synthesis between the practice of ethnography and the study of language while presenting African natural language data still rare in mainstream linguistics in an accessible format      (Non)referentiality in Conversation Michael C. Ewing, Ritva Laury, 2024-08-01 Although there is a large literature on referentiality going back to at least the nineteenth and early twentieth century much of this early work is based on constructed data and most of it is on English The chapters in this volume contribute to a growing body of work that examines referentiality through naturalistic data in context Taking an interactional approach to non referentiality contributors to this volume ask how participants talk in real time about persons and things as individuals or as categories and what distinguishes referential from nonreferential specific from nonspecific and generic from nongeneric Crucially we ask whether these distinctions even matter to participants in conversation and if they do what the evidence for that would be Contributors investigate these issues using data from conversational interaction in a variety of social contexts including between close friends and family to more casual acquaintances in service encounters and between adults and children and in a range of languages English Finnish French Indonesian Japanese and Mandarin Collectively the chapters develop insights showing that reference is often fluid dynamic and indeterminate that referential indeterminacy is typically unproblematic for participants that shifts in referentiality tend to be tied to specific social goals and that reference and referentiality emerge dialogically and interactionally

The Top Books of the Year Studies In Anaphora Typological Studies In Language The year 2023 has witnessed a noteworthy surge in literary brilliance, with numerous compelling novels enthraling the hearts of readers worldwide. Lets delve into the realm of popular books, exploring the engaging narratives that have captivated audiences this year. Studies In Anaphora Typological Studies In Language : Colleen Hoover's "It Ends with Us" This touching tale of love, loss, and resilience has captivated readers with its raw and emotional exploration of domestic abuse. Hoover skillfully weaves a story of hope and healing, reminding us that even in the darkest of times, the human spirit can succeed. Studies In Anaphora Typological Studies In Language : Taylor Jenkins Reid's "The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo" This spellbinding historical fiction novel unravels the life of Evelyn Hugo, a Hollywood icon who defies expectations and societal norms to pursue her dreams. Reid's compelling storytelling and compelling characters transport readers to a bygone era, immersing them in a world of glamour, ambition, and self-discovery. Studies In Anaphora Typological Studies In Language : Delia Owens' "Where the Crawdads Sing" This captivating coming-of-age story follows Kya Clark, a young woman who grows up alone in the marshes of North Carolina. Owens crafts a tale of resilience, survival, and the transformative power of nature, entrancing readers with its evocative prose and mesmerizing setting. These popular novels represent just a fraction of the literary treasures that have emerged in 2023. Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of captivating stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and gripping novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
