BENEDICT, 2018 A Study of Prolonged Fasting (Classic Reprint) Francis Gano Benedict, 2015-07-26 Excerpt from A Study of Prolonged Fasting The research reported in this book on the metabolism during prolonged fasting is a continuation and amplification of the investigations reported in The influence of inanition on metabolism Carnegie Institution of Washington Publication No 77 The opportunity to conduct this series of scientific observations on a man living for 31 days without food and drinking only distilled water would have been of little value without the cooperation of a large number of scientific associates and computers Certain co workers kindly assumed the responsibility not only for the accumulation of the data but also for the preparation of a report of their respective findings In this book special reports are made by Dr H W Goodall on the physical condition of the subject during the fast his subjective impressions and mental attitude toward the fast and the microscopy of the urine and the tests for albumin by Dr J E Ash on the blood by Dr H S Langfeld on the psychophysiology of the fast by Dr A I Kendall on bacterial intestinal flora and by Mr H L Higgins on alveolar air About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works A Study of Prolonged Fasting Francis Gano Benedict, 1915 Carnegie Institution of Washington Publication, 1919 Last Weapons Kevin Grant, 2019-06-18 Last Weapons explains how the use of hunger strikes and fasts in political protest became a global phenomenon Exploring the proliferation of hunger as a form of protest between the late nineteenth and mid twentieth centuries Kevin Grant traces this radical tactic as it spread through trans imperial networks among revolutionaries and civil rights activists from Russia to Britain to Ireland to India and beyond He shows how the significance of hunger strikes and fasts refracted across political and cultural boundaries and how prisoners experienced and understood their own starvation which was then poorly explained by medical research Prison staff and political officials struggled to manage this challenge not only to their authority but to society's faith in the justice of liberal governance Whether starving for the vote or national liberation prisoners embodied proof of their own assertions that the rule of law enforced injustices that required redress and reform Drawing upon deep archival research the author offers a highly original examination of the role of hunger in contesting an imperial world a tactic that still resonates today

A Study of Prolonged Fasting Francis Gano Benedict, 1915 In this book special reports are made by H W Goodall on the physical condition of the subject during the fast his subjective impressions and mental attitude toward the fast and the microscopy of the urine and the tests for albumin by Dr J E Ash on the blood by Dr H S Langfeld on the psycho physiology of the fast by Dr A I Kendall on bacterial intestinal flora and by Mr H L Higgins on alveolar air Preface
