Literary into Cultural Studies Antony Easthope, 2003-09-02 Modern Literary study was founded on an opposition between the canon and its other popular culture The theory wars of the 1970s and the 1980s and in particular the advent of structuralist and post structuralist theory transformed this relationship With the death of literature the distinction between high and popular culture was no longer tenable and the field of inquiry shifted from literary into cultural studies Anthony Easthope argues that this new discipline must find a methodological consensus for its analysis of canonical and popular texts Through a detailed criticism of competing theories British cultural studies New Historicism cultural materialism he shows how this new study should and should not be done Easthope's exploration of the problems possibilities and politics of this new discipline includes an original reassessment of the question of literary value By contrasting Conrad's Heart of Darkness with Burroughs's Tarzan of the Apes Easthope demonstrates how textuality sustains the opposition between high and popular culture darkness

Sources for Studying the Holocaust Paul R. Bartrop, 2023-04-14 Sources for Studying the Holocaust provides a pathway for readers to engage with questions about what sources can be used to study the Holocaust For many historians the challenge has been how to rescue the story from oblivion when oft used sources for other periods of history introduce even more issues around authenticity and reliability What can be learned of what transpired in villages and towns numbering several thousand people when all its Jewish inhabitants were totally obliterated through Nazi action Who can furnish eyewitness testimony if all the eyewitnesses were killed How does one examine written records preserving knowledge of facts or events where none were kept or survived the onslaught And what weight do we put upon such resources which did manage to endure the destruction wrought by the Holocaust Each chapter looks at one of a diverse range of source materials from which scholars have rescued the history including survivor testimony diaries letters newspaper accounts photographs trial documents artefacts digital resources memorials films literature and art Each chapter shows how different types of records can be utilised as accurate sources for the writing of Holocaust history Collectively they highlight the ways in which all material even the most fragmentary can be employed to recreate a reliable record of what happened during the Holocaust and show how all sources considered can be employed to find meaning and understanding by exploring a range of sources deeply This book is a unique analysis of the types of sources that can be used to access the history of Holocaust It will be of invaluable interest to readers students and researchers of the Holocaust

Interconnecting Translation Studies and Imagology Luc van Doorslaer, Peter Flynn, Joep Leerssen, 2016-02-25 Isn't translation all about saying exactly the same thing in another language Aren't national images totally outdated in this era of globalization Most people might agree but this book amply illustrates how persistent and multifaceted clichés on translation and nation can be Time and again translating involves making transfer choices and these choices are never neutral Though globalization has seemingly all but erased national ideologies and cultural borders such ideologies and borders continue to play a determining role in conflicts identity politics and cultural profiles The place where transfer choices and forms of national and cultural representation come together is also the place where Translation Studies and Imagology meet This book offers a wealth of chapters showing how decisive selection and transfer processes can be in representing national images both self images and images of the others It shows also how intensely the two disciplines can work together and mutually benefit from shared data and methodologies

A Contribution to the Study of the Sources of the Genie Du Christianisme Madeleine Dempsey, 1928

A History of Divorce Law Henry Kha, 2020-11-30 The book explores the rise of civil divorce in Victorian England the subsequent operation of a fault system of divorce based solely on the ground of adultery and the eventual piecemeal repeal of the Victorian era divorce law during the Interwar years The legal history of the Matrimonial Causes Act 1857 is at the heart of the book The Act had a transformative impact on English law and society by introducing a secular judicial system of civil divorce This swept aside the old system of divorce that was only obtainable from the House of Lords and inadvertently led to the creation of the modern family justice system The book argues that only through understanding the legal doctrine in its wider cultural political religious and social context is it possible to fully analyse and assess the changes brought about by the Act The major developments included the end of any pretence of the indissolubility of marriage the statutory enshrinement of a double standard based on gender in the grounds for divorce and the growth of divorce across all spectrums of English society The Act was a product of political and legal compromise between conservative forces resisting the legal introduction of civil divorce and the reformers who demanded married women receive equal access to the grounds of divorce Changing attitudes towards divorce that began in the Edwardian period led to a gradual rejection of Victorian moral values and the repeal of the Act after 80 years of existence in the Interwar years The book will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers with an interest in legal history family law and Victorian studies
