Knowledge Production, Area Studies and Global Cooperation Claudia Derichs, 2017-04-27 Whereas Area Studies and cross border cooperation research conventionally demarcates groups of people by geographical boundaries individuals might in fact feel more connected by shared values and principles than by conventional spatial dimensions Knowledge Production Area Studies and Global Cooperation asks what norms and principles lead to the creation of knowledge about cross border cooperation and connection It studies why theories methods and concepts originate in one place rather than another how they travel and what position the scholar adopts while doing research particularly in the field Taking case studies from Asia the Middle East and North Africa the book links the production of alternative epistemologies to the notion of global cooperation and reassesses the ways in which the concept of connectedness can be applied at the translocal and individual rather than the formal international and collective level Knowledge Production Area Studies and Global Cooperation provides an innovative and critical approach towards established means of producing knowledge about different areas of the world demonstrating that an understanding of pluri local connectivity should be integrated into the production of knowledge about different areas of the world and the behavioural dimension of global cooperation By shifting the view from the collective to the individual and from the formal to often invisible patterns of connectedness this book provides an important fresh perspective which will be of interest to scholars and students of Area Studies Politics International Relations and Development Studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY ND 4.0 license Social Studies for Secondary Schools Alan J. Singer, 2003-04-02 Social Studies for Secondary Schools Teaching to Learn Learning to Teach Second Edition integrates discussions of educational goals and the nature of history and social studies with practical ideas for organizing social studies curricula units lessons projects and activities A major theme woven throughout the text is that what we choose to teach and the way we teach reflect our broader understanding of society history and the purposes of social studies education Each chapter opens with a broad question about social studies education provides many examples of lessons including lesson ideas developed by new and experienced middle school and high school social studies teachers features a rich variety of teaching learning and classroom activities designed to provoke discussion and illustrate different approaches to teaching social studies and concludes with essays about related social studies topics Part I focuses on philosophical issues social studies goals and standards and the design of social studies curricula Part II examines and offers examples of strategies for planning units and lessons Part III explores topics such as thematic and interdisciplinary teaching a project approach to social studies as well as assesses student learning and one's own performance as a teacher and provides a guide to social studies resource materials and organizations New in the Second Edition Every chapter has been updated and includes a number of new lesson ideas The lesson ideas are designed especially to help beginning teachers address learning standards work in inclusive settings and promote literacy and the use of technology in social studies classrooms Sample activities developed with members of the Hofstra New Teachers Network reflect the current focus on document based instruction and assessment and can serve as tools for assessing student learning Increased attention is given to project based social studies instruction and to multicultural education Intended as a text for undergraduate and graduate preservice social studies methods courses this text is also useful for in service training programs as a reference for new social studies teachers and as a resource for experienced social studies educators who are engaged in rethinking their teaching practice
