Early Media Effects Theory & the Suggestion Doctrine: Selected Readings, 1895-1935 Patrick Parsons, 2024-12-22 While much has been written on the history of media effects research in the United States a casual review of the literature could reasonably lead one to believe that little if any such work was conducted until the 1940s The anthology consisting of over 30 public domain works originally publishing from the late 19th century to the mid 1930s demonstrates the rich and varied study of media effects before mid century much of it centered on the concept of suggestion What media scholars know today as persuasion social psychologists of the early 1900s would have understood as the process of suggestion The works collected in Early Media Effects Theory the Suggestion Doctrine include the original statements on the subject from many of the leading social theorists of the age among them figures such as Gabriel Tarde and Gustave Le Bon in France and James Baldwin Edward Ross and Floyd Allport in the United States The Drama of Social Life Charles Edgley, 2016-03-23 Whatever else they may be doing human beings are also and always expressing themselves whenever they are in the awareness of others As such the metaphor of life as theater of people playing roles to audiences who review them and then coordinate further action is an ancient idea that has been resurrected by social scientists as an organizing simile for the analysis and understanding of social life The Drama of Social Life examines this dramaturgical approach to social life bringing together the latest original work from leading contemporary dramaturgical thinkers across the social sciences Thematically organized it explores the work of classical and contemporary thinkers who have contributed most to this theoretical framework the foundational concepts of the dramaturgical approach a rich array of substantive areas of empirical investigation to which dramaturgy continues to contribute directions for future dramaturgical thinking An indispensable collection that updates and extends the dramaturgical framework The Drama of Social Life will appeal to scholars and students of sociology social psychology performance studies cultural studies communication film studies and anthropology and all those interested in the work of Goffman and symbolic interactionist theory and practice

Harmony and Dissent R. Bruce Elder, 2010-04-22 R Bruce Elder argues that the authors of many of the manifestoes that announced in such lively ways the appearance of yet another artistic movement shared a common aspiration they proposed to reformulate the visual literary and performing arts so that they might take on attributes of the cinema The cinema Elder argues became in the early decades of the twentieth century a pivotal artistic force around which a remarkable variety and number of aesthetic forms took shape To demonstrate this Elder begins with a wide ranging discussion that opens up some broad topics concerning modernity's cognitive and perceptual regime with a view to establishing that a crisis within that regime engendered some peculiar and highly questionable epistemological beliefs and enthusiasms Through this discussion Elder advances the startling claim that a crisis of cognition precipitated by modernity engendered by way of response a peculiar sort of pneumatic spiritual epistemology Elder then shows that early ideas of the cinema were strongly influenced by this pneumatic epistemology and uses this conception of the cinema to explain its pivotal role in shaping two key moments in early twentieth century art the quest to bring forth a pure objectless non
