technologies in contemporary organizations Transportation Planning for a Better Environment Peter Stringer, 2013-03-09

All the papers in this volume were presented at a conference on Transportation and Urban Life held in Munich during the third week of September 1975. The conference was sponsored by the Special Programme Panels on Systems Science and Human Factors of the Science Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation. The distinguishing characteristic of the conference and of this volume lies in the combination of systems science and human factors contributions in the field of urban transportation. The initiative for attempting such a synthesis came from the sponsors. It is increasingly realised that the complexity of contemporary problems which applied scientists are being asked to solve is such that the coordinated efforts of several disciplines are needed to solve them. The brief which we formulated for the conference and distributed in our international call for papers was as follows: The conference is intended to highlight significant psychological, sociological and economic aspects of transportation and urban life and to present new techniques which can be applied to these aspects and their interfaces. Papers were invited in four topic areas: Communities transportation problems in relation to social needs; residential planning; industry and commerce; cities and large urban areas; the economic environment; material resources; regional development and transportation administration and management at the project and multiprogramme level; and quality of life and transportation noise; visual intrusion; severance; air pollution.

Theories of Personality William A. Wallace, 1993 Introduction To Psychology Ilona Roth, 2021-06-29

This two volume text provides a comprehensive introduction to the issues, theories and methods of psychology including both classic approaches and recent research. The areas covered range from the intellectual, social and emotional development of the child to the ways in which adults perceive, attend, remember and communicate from Freud's psychoanalytic framework to the work of present day psychologists, from debates about the scientific status of psychology to the special problems which the study of people poses for psychologists. Each chapter presents important issues in depth, highlighting controversies while showing that they rarely have neat solutions. Throughout emphasis is given to the contrasting levels of analysis which contribute to the understanding of psychological functioning from fundamental biological processes to complex social interactions. While prepared for the Open University course Introduction to Psychology, these volumes will provide an excellent introduction to students of psychology at other universities and colleges. The text incorporates the best of the Open University's tried and tested teaching methods and particular importance is placed on encouraging the reader's active participation, making the books enjoyable and stimulating as well as informative. The text is divided into eight sections.
