Programs to Reduce Teen Dating Violence and Sexual Assault Arlene N. Weisz, Beverly M. Black, 2009-05-05

Arlene Weisz and Beverly Black interview practitioners from more than fifty dating violence and sexual assault programs across the United States to provide a unique resource for effective teen dating violence prevention Enhancing existing research with the shared wisdom of the nation s prevention community Weisz and Black describe program goals and content recruitment strategies membership structure and community involvement in practitioners own words Their comprehensive approach reveals the core techniques that should be a part of any successful prevention program including theoretical consistency which contributes to sound content development and peer education and youth leadership which empower participants and keep programs relevant Weisz and Black show that multisession programs are most useful in preventing violence and assault because they enable participants to learn new behaviors and change entrenched attitudes Combining single and mixed gender sessions as well as steering discussions away from the assignment of blame also yield positive results The authors demonstrate that productive education remains sensitive to differences in culture and sexual orientation and includes experiential exercises and role playing Manuals help in guiding educators and improving evaluation but they should also allow adolescents to direct the discussion Good programs regularly address teachers and parents Ultimately though Weisz and Black find that the ideal program retains prevention educators long after the apprentice stage encouraging self evaluation and new interventions based on the wisdom that experience brings

Teaching for Racial Equity Tonya B. Perry,Steven Zemelman,Katy Smith,2023-10-10 Recipient of the 2022 Excellence in Equity Award It is not enough to be against racism in education teachers must be actively antiracist Yet how do we start reflecting on our own beliefs and lives so we can truly teach for racial literacy In the award winning Teaching for Racial Equity Becoming Interrupters authors Tonya Perry Steven Zemelman and Katy Smith engage in honest conversations between educators of color and their white colleagues Authentic inspiring and sometimes uncomfortable teachers share stories of personal histories and experiences that shaped them as people and educators In this book you will find Strategies to understand different backgrounds through a racial lens and ways to address potentially difficult conversations with fellow educators In depth overview of Yolanda Sealey Ruiz s Archaeology of Self™ and how it can be personally and professionally adopted Lists of resources for teaching about and actively interrupting racism in education and tools that document systemic inequalities in the classroom Ways to facilitate student led conversations which examine race and inequitable conditions found nationwide By examining inequalities found at a systemic level teachers can start to remove some of their internal biases and allow students to show who they truly are In turn this can help create a school curriculum that makes space for BIPOC voices that inspire and invite students to share Teaching for Racial Equity Becoming Interrupters provides a resource for teachers and educators to critically reflect and begin work to interrupt racism at all levels
