

How Protective is the Tariff?

- Tariff Escalation: Steep escalation of effective rates in industrial countries by degree of processing discourages industrialization of developing countries.
- Protection of Inputs and Outputs: Development of domestic production inputs via protection of intermediate inputs reduces effective protection on final product.
- Exports and Protection: Exports may be harmed by protection of intermediate inputs.

Tariff Protection Industrialization:

Tariff Protection and Industrialization Padma Desai,1970 Trade Policy and Industrialization in Turbulent Times Gerry Helleiner,2002-09-11 The relationship between trade policy and industrialization has provoked much controversy Can trade policy promote economic growth in developing countries Those actively working in the area are becoming increasingly sceptical about the conventional advice given by international policy advisors and organizations This volume builds upon earlier theoretical and empirical research on trade policy and industrialization but is the first cross the board attempt to review developing country experiences in this realm for twenty years The experience of fourteen developing countries in the 1970s and 1980s is assessed by the contributors each of whom have a detailed understanding of their country s recent experience

The Political Economy of American Industrialization, 1877-1900 Richard Franklin Bensel,2000-11-06 In the late nineteenth century the United States underwent an extremely rapid industrial expansion that moved the nation into the front ranks of the world economy At the same time the nation maintained democratic institutions as the primary means of allocating political offices and power The combination of robust democratic institutions and rapid industrialization is rare and this book explains how development and democracy coexisted in the United States during industrialization Most literature focuses on either electoral politics or purely economic analyses of industrialization This book synthesizes politics and economics by stressing the Republican party s role as a developmental agent in national politics the primacy of the three great developmental policies the gold standard the protective tariff and the national market in state and local politics and the impact of uneven regional development on the construction of national political coalitions in Congress and presidential elections

Industrialization in Malaysia Rokiah Alavi,2006-09-07 Some of the most successful growth economies in the Pacific Rim have combined protectionist Import Substitution Industrialisation policies with export oriented policies This study provides a systematic rethinking of relationships between strategies within the Malaysian context

Trade Policy and Industrialization in Turbulent Times Gerald K. Helleiner,1994 With the relationship between trade policy and industrialization coming in for increasingly close scrutiny this book assesses how far trade policy has promoted economic growth in fourteen developing countries in the 1970s and 1980s

Thailand's Industrialization and its Consequences Medhi Krongkaew,1995-06-12 Professor Krongkaew is one of Thailand's best known academic economists and he has brought together an impressive number of authorities on the modern Thai economy The resulting book should be of great value to anyone wanting an authoritative and comprehensive overview of recent developments in one of Asia's most dynamic economies Anne Booth School of Oriental and African Studies University of London The book is divided into 4 parts Part 1 gives an overview of Thai industrialization and the roles of agriculture manufactured exports direct foreign investment and tourism as major contributors to recent fast economic growth Part 2 analyses the impact of industrialization on government finance monetary policy urbanisation and household welfare Part 3 further investigates impact on political development social values the environment and education health and science and technology Part 4 looks at a future role of Thailand as a newly industrialized country in Asia Industry and Revolution Aurora Gómez-Galvarriato,2013-06-18 Industrial workers not just peasants played an essential role in the Mexican Revolution Tracing the introduction of mechanized industry into the Orizaba Valley Aurora G mez Galvarriato argues convincingly that the revolution cannot be understood apart from the Industrial Revolution and thus provides a fresh perspective on both transformations Industrialization in an Open Economy: Nigeria 1945-1966 Peter Kilby,1967

The Transformation of Southeast Asian Economies Teofilo C. Daquila,2007 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally the book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies Export Dependence versus the New Protectionism Glenn Randall Fong,2017-10-10 In an international political economy characterised both by constancy and change this study first published in 1996 links together one seemingly incongruous continuity in international trade relations with an increasingly dramatic development in the economies of industrial countries On the one hand industrialised countries have become progressively dependent upon one another On the other hand the liberal international trade regime has yet to falter These two points are tied together by seeking to explain the maintenance of liberal trade relations in terms of the mutual economic dependence of industrial countries In particular the study examines what may be a fundamental constraint on trade protectionism today the reliance of industrialised countries on external trade relations and especially on markets within the industrial world

Export-Oriented Industrialisation Mohammed Ariff, Hal Hill,2012-08-06 First published in 1985 this study is a comparative examination of industrialisation and industrial policy from the early 1960s to the early 1980s in the five original member countries of the Association of South East Asian Nations ASEAN namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The work provides an integrated overview of industrial policies and performance in the five countries and forms essential reading for both those with a specialist interest in the ASEAN countries and their economic performance and for students of industrialisation in developing countries the world over

The Global Dimension of Economic Evolution Kurt Dopfer, 2012-12-06 This volume on evolutionary approaches to economic development and growth is a member of a family of special volumes that Springer has published on Evolutionary Economics recently The present volume has excellent predecessors There is a special volume on Evolution in Markets and Institutions edited by Ulrich Witt and another on Evolutionary and Neoclassical Perspectives on Market Structure and Economic Growth edited by Yannis Katsoulacos And there are more in the pipeline The volumes already published reflect the broad ranging interests of evolutionary economists and within the scope delineated they are devoted to major research areas of the discipline The editorial intention behind the venture of special volumes has been to bundle together some of the research areas in order to sharpen the problem focus and to generate research synergies within major research fields We may somewhat obviously define a research field by its research topics For the present purpose however we may wish to conceive the research conducted by evolutionary economists as belonging to either a research area that is inspired in its problem perspective by neoclassical economics or to one that is not The very success of the critique of the neoclassical paradigm relied on a preoccupation with its research scope and questions Evolutionary economics has scored marvelously in challenging major neoclassical stands and neoclassical economics may never be quite the same in the future

The Oxford Handbook of Industrial Policy Arkebe

Oqubay, Christopher Cramer, Ha-Joon Chang, Richard Kozul-Wright, 2020-10-20 Industrial policy has long been regarded as a strategy to encourage sector industry or economy wide development by the state It has been central to competitiveness catching up and structural change in both advanced and developing countries It has also been one of the most contested perspectives reflecting ideologically inflected debates and shifts in prevailing ideas There has lately been a renewed interest in industrial policy in academic circles and international policy dialogues prompted by the weak outcomes of policies pursued by many developing countries under the direction of the Washington Consensus and its descendants the slow economic recovery of many advanced economies after the 2008 global financial crisis and mounting anxieties about the national consequences of globalization The Oxford Handbook of Industrial Policy presents a comprehensive review of and a novel approach to the conceptual and theoretical foundations of industrial policy The Handbook also presents analytical perspectives on how industrial policy connects to broader issues of development strategy macro economic policies infrastructure development human capital and political economy By combining historical and theoretical perspectives and integrating conceptual issues with empirical evidence drawn from advanced emerging and developing countries The Handbook offers valuable lessons and policy insights to policymakers practitioners and researchers on developing productive transformation technological capabilities and international competitiveness It addresses pressing issues including climate change the gendered dimensions of industrial policy global governance and technical change Written by leading international thinkers on the subject the volume pulls together different perspectives and schools of thought from neo classical to structuralist development economists to discuss and highlight the adaptation of industrial policy in an ever changing socio economic and political landscape The Interface of Competition Law, Industrial Policy and Development Concerns

Balthasar Strunz,2018-07-28 This book analyses essential concepts of competition law and industrial policy and shows where the two areas clash with and complement each other respectively The discussion takes place in the context of developing countries taking into consideration their realities and specific needs South Africa serves as a real world example for competition law that goes beyond the notion of consumer welfare An in depth analysis of the enforcement of South African law illustrates how the law is used both to combat the negative effects of past industrial policy and to accommodate current economic and social needs The book is intended for all readers with an interest in the enforcement of competition law in developing countries It will particularly benefit those who want to learn about unorthodox approaches that integrate the concept of public interest and social imperatives into the application of competition law The Economies of Southeast Asia

Teofilo C. Daquila,2005 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally this book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies The Oxford Handbook of Industrial Hubs and Economic Development

Arkebe Oqubay,Justin Yifu Lin,2020-07-23 Industrialization supported by industrial hubs has been widely associated with structural transformation and catch up But while the direct economic benefits of industrial hubs are significant their value lies first and foremost in their contribution as incubators of industrialization production and technological capability and innovation The Oxford Handbook of Industrial Hubs and Economic Development adopts an interdisciplinary approach to examine the conceptual underpinnings review empirical evidence of regions and economies and extract pertinent lessons for policy researchers and practitioners on the key drivers of success and failure for industrial hubs This Handbook illustrates the diverse and complex nature of industrial hubs and shows how they promote industrialization economic structural transformation and technological catch up It explores the implications of emerging issues and trends such as environmental protection and sustainability technological advancement shifts in the global economy and urbanization The House of Tata Meets the Second Industrial Revolution Chikayoshi

Nomura,2018-04-12 This monograph aims to analyze the economic and business history of colonial India from a corporate perspective by clarifying the historical role of institutional developments based on archival evidence of a representative enterprise The perspective is distinctively unique in that it highlights the salience of corporate level institutional responses to explain the causes of colonial India s industrial growth in addition to two renowned perspectives focusing on government economic policy or factor endowment One of the driving forces of India s high growth rate since the 1980s is the expansion of modern business corporations whose origins date back to the colonial era in the mid nineteenth century This monograph explores the historical foundation of the growth of such corporations in colonial India guided by a substantial collection of documents of Tata Iron and Steel Company whose rich records have not received the due attention they have long deserved As clarified by numerous economic and business historians of leading industrialized countries since the works of Douglass North and Alfred Chandler this study as well proposes that the development of modern business corporations in colonial India was broadly supported by the reciprocal evolution of economic institutions and corporate organizations Adding a new perspective to the business and economic history of colonial India the analysis also provides an important case study of the development of corporate business in the non Western world to the study of global business history

Japanese Industrial Governance Yul Sohn,2005 Japanese Industrial Governance uses a wide range of original Japanese sources to explore the evolution of Japanese developmental debates arguing that the core of the industrial governance system was in fact the result of infant industry protection and high barriers to foreign entry In response to international pressures in particular penetration by Anglo American multinational corporations the licensing system as Sohn refers to it was not purely an internal domestic decision as it is commonly regarded Using primarily the cases of prewar petroleum and automobiles industries the focus of this book lies mainly in the late nineteenth century when the Meiji leaders 1868 1912 established non tariff protective mechanisms which were strengthened by the massive entry of foreign multinationals during the 1920s Combined with other industrial policy tools such as subsidies and other financial incentives the licensing system helped to establish regulated markets
