Taste For Travel An Anthology:

A Taste for Travel John Julius Norwich, 1987 Encyclopedia of the Essay Tracy Chevalier, 2012-10-12 This groundbreaking new source of international scope defines the essay as nonfictional prose texts of between one and 50 pages in length The more than 500 entries by 275 contributors include entries on nationalities various categories of essays such as generic such as sermons aphorisms individual major works notable writers and periodicals that created a market for essays and particularly famous or significant essays The preface details the historical development of the essay and the alphabetically arranged entries usually include biographical sketch nationality era selected writings list additional readings and anthologies The Longman Anthology of British Literature David Damrosch, Kevin J. H. Dettmar, 2006 A Taste of Tragedy Kim McMahon, 2016-04-08 Morgan Hunter sacrificed everything for her career She had yet to encounter anything she wasn't willing to do to succeed until now When she uncovers evidence that the healthy foods she's been hired to promote may be dangerous she must reevaluate her priorities As questions mount and the body count rises she finds herself caught in the cross hairs of an organization that will stop at nothing to hide its secrets and protect its profits With no one else to trust Morgan is forced to seek help from the man she drove away but whom she never stopped loving Royal Taste Daniëlle De Vooght, 2016-04-08 The explicit association between food and status was academically speaking first acknowledged on the food production level He who owned the land possessed the grain he who owned the mill had the flour he who owned the oven sold the bread However this conceptualization of power is dual next to the obvious demonstration of power on the production level is the social significance of food consumption Consumption of rich food in terms of quantity and quality was and is a means to show one's social status and to create or uphold power This book is concerned with the relationship between food consumption status and power Contributors address the old top of society and consider the way kings and queens emperors and dukes nobles and aristocrats wined and dined in the rapidly changing world of the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries where the bourgeoisie and even the common people obtained political rights economic influence social importance and cultural authority The book questions the role of food consumption at courts and the significance of particular foodstuffs or ways of cooking deals with the number of guests and their place at the table and studies the way the courts under consideration influenced one another Topics include the role of sherry at the court of Queen Victoria as a means of representing middle class values the use of the truffle as a promotional gift at the Savoy court and the influence of European culture on banqueting at the Ottoman Palace Together the volume addresses issues of social networks prestige politics and diplomacy banquets and their design income and spending economic aims taste and preference cultural innovations social hierarchies material culture and many more social and cultural issues It will provide a useful entry into food history for scholars of court culture and anyone with an interest in modern cultural history Translating Travel Loredana Polezzi, 2017-03-02 Translating Travel examines the relationship between travel writing and translation asking what happens when books travel beyond the narrow confines of one genre one literary system and one culture The volume takes as its starting point the marginal position of contemporary Italian travel writing in the Italian literary system and proposes a comparative reading of originals and translations designed to highlight the varying reception of texts in different cultures Two main themes in the book are the affinity between the representations produced by travel and the practices of translation and the complex links between travel writing and genres such as ethnography journalism autobiography and fiction Individual chapters are devoted to Italian travellers accounts of Tibet and their English translations the hybridization of journalism and travel writing in the works of Oriana Fallaci Italo Calvino s sublimation of travel writing in the stylized fiction of Le città invisibili and the complex network of literary references which marked the reception of Claudio Magris s Danubio in different cultures

The Longman Anthology of British Literature: The Romantics and their contemporaries David Damrosch, 1999 The Longman Compact Anthology of British Literature is a concise and thoughtfully arranged survey of British literature Within its pages canonical authors mingle with newly visible writers English accents are heard next to Anglo Norman Welsh Gaelic and Scottish ones female and male voices are set in dialogue literature from the British Isles is integrated with post colonial writing and major works are illuminated by clusters of shorter texts that bring literary social and historical issues vividly to life Readers interested in British Literature

To Taste the River Baiba Bičole, 2021-07-20 Baiba Bičole belongs to the postwar generation of Latvian poets living in exile who reached artistic maturity outside their native country and broke with the older exile generation s traditional nationalistic poetry In To Taste the River Bičole s poems are lyrical and personal often with intense emotion and startling imagery Shown through different prisms like variations on a theme her subjects include separation loss and time the power of language and song and love Central to her vision is nature both as subject and metaphor Appearing most frequently are waters rain mist ice rivers birds sun and sky Her unique voice renders a continuing motif of thirst along with the need for freedom and movement usually expressed through transformation Nature in her poetry is distinct in that it is rooted in the world of the traditional Latvian folk songs the dainas where nature is animistic and personified and the human and natural worlds are deeply interrelated This is Bičole s first collection of poems in English translation

San Diego Magazine , 1987-03 Cultures of Taste/Theories of Appetite: Eating Romanticism T. Morton, 2004-01-16 Cultures of Taste Theories of Appetite brings two major critical impulses within the field of Romanticism to bear upon an important and growing field of research appetite and its related discourses of taste and consumption As consumption in all its metaphorical variety comes to displace the body as a theoretical site for challenging the distinction between inside and outside food itself has attracted attention as a device to interrogate the rhetoric and politics of Romanticism In brief the volume initiates a dialogue between the cultural politics of food and eating and the philosophical implications of ingestion digestion and excretion
