Sir Edward Watkin 1819-1901:

Sir Edward Watkin, 1819-1901 John Neville Greaves, 2005 J. F. Bosher, 2010-04 During the century 1850-1950 Vancouver Island attracted Imperial officers and other Imperials from India the British Isles and elsewhere in the Empire Victoria was the main British port on the north west Pacific Coast for forty years before the city of Vancouver was founded in 1886 to be the coastal terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway These two coastal cities were historically and geographically different The Island joined Canada in 1871 and thirty five years later the Royal Navy withdrew from Esquimalt but Island communities did not lose their Imperial character until the 1950s P 4 of cover British Businessmen and Canadian Confederation Andrew Smith, 2008-07-16 Andrew Smith discusses the role of British investors in Canadian Confederation covering the period from the construction of the Grand Trunk Railroad in the 1850s to Canada's purchase of Rupert's Land in 1869-70 He describes how some investors lobbied the British government for the policies that made Confederation possible working closely with the Fathers of Confederation many of whom were participants in the same trans Atlantic crony capitalist system British factory owners with classical liberal beliefs however disliked Confederation because they believed it would delay the political independence of the North American colonies something they saw as beneficial The Subterranean Railway Christian Wolmar, 2012-11-01 Since the Victorian era London's Underground has had played a vital role in the daily life of generations of Londoners Christian Wolmar celebrates the vision and determination of the 19th century pioneers who made the world's first and still the largest underground passenger railway one of the most impressive engineering achievements in history From the early days of steam to electrification via the Underground's contribution to 20th century industrial design and its role during two world wars the story comes right up to the present with its sleek driverless trains and the wrangles over the future of the system This book reveals London's hidden wonder in all its glory and shows how the railway beneath the streets helped create the city we know today Creating Capitalism James Taylor, 2014 The growth of joint stock business in Victorian Britain re-evaluated showing in particular the resistance to it Winner of the Economic History Society's Best First Monograph award 2009 The emergence of the joint stock company in nineteenth century Britain was a culture shock for many Victorians Though the home of the industrial revolution the nation's economy was dominated by the private partnership seen as the most efficient as well as the most ethical form of business organisation The large impersonal company and the rampant speculation it was thought to encourage were viewed with suspicion and downright hostility This book argues that the existing historiography understates society's resistance to joint stock enterprise it employs an eclectic range of sources from newspapers and parliamentary papers to cartoons novels and plays to unearth this forgotten economic debate It explores how the legal system was gradually restructured to facilitate joint stock enterprise a process culminating in the limited liability legislation of the mid 1850s This has typically been interpreted as evidence for the emergence of new positive attitudes to speculation and economic growth but the book demonstrates how traditional outlooks

continued to influence legislation and the way in which economic reforms were driven by political agendas It shows how debates on the economic culture of nineteenth century Britain are strikingly relevant to current questions over the ethics of multinational corporations James Taylor is Senior Lecturer in British History at Lancaster University
