contribution to the field of teacher education Resources in Education ,2001-10 Wise Social Studies in an Age of High-Stakes Testing Elizabeth Anne Yeager,O. L. Davis,2005-08-01 The chapters in this volume illustrate how teachers are bringing creativity higher order thinking and meaningful learning activities into particular school settings despite pressures of standards and testing We chose the word wise for the title of this book and we use it frequently to describe the pedagogical practices we have identified The words powerful and ambitious are used as well The larger point as Keith C Barton makes in his chapter is that there is no necessary connection between content standards and high stakes tests on the one hand and lowlevel rote instruction on the other He reminds us as Thornton 1991 and Wiggins 1987 previously have argued that teachers play a crucial role in mediating educational policy and their intentions and interpretations have at least as much influence on classroom practice as does the content of standards and highstakes tests Barton also asserts that this makes it all the more crucial to identify the wisdom of practice that enables teachers to engage students in powerful educational experiences Interprofessional Working In Practice: Learning And Working Together For Children And Families Trodd, Lyn,Chivers, Leo,2011-09-01 Written by a multi professional team of contributors and grounded by their experience in interprofessional work this book relates to the rhetoric of interprofessionalism to discussions and examples of practice Cover Whisperings from the Corridors Susanne Garvis,Rachael Dwyer,2013-02-11 This book is intended to illuminate the experiences of teachers working in higher education the tensions they face in working in an increasingly complex professional landscape Higher teaching loads increased expectations of research output and changing social and economic structures that shape the way students view their tertiary education have a profound affect on university teachers work The pages of this volume are filled with the stories of teachers in universities that allow the reader to look deeply into the complexities of their work We and the other authors do not pretend that the stories told here are representative of all university teachers that they are in any way generalisable but that others may learn from the knowledge that is shared Urban Parents Perspectives Children'S Math. Mtl V8#3 Martha Alleksaht-Snider,2018-12-07 First published in 2006 This is a special issue of Mathematical Thinking and Learning Volume 8 Number 3 from 2006 that focuses on Urban Parents Perspectives on Children s Mathematics Learning and Issues of Equity in Mathematics Education Connecting Policy and Practice Pam Denicolo,Michael Kompf,2005 This volume delivers a selection of papers presented at an international teaching conference on issues of theory and practice These key topics will be of interest to novice and veteran teachers policy makers and all education professionals Action Research for the Classroom Máirín Glenn,Bernie Sullivan,Mary Roche,Caitriona McDonagh,2023-05-02 What is action research Why does it matter in education This practical and accessible book provides answers to these questions guiding readers through a meaningful and manageable approach to research in practice Readers will benefit from guidance on easing the stress of research projects in teacher education courses professional development initiatives and in school self evaluation Supported by case studies from teachers and

Literary Praxis Piet-Hein van de Ven, Brenton Doecke, 2011-11-16 Literary Praxis A Conversational Inquiry into the Teaching of Literature explores the teaching of literature in secondary schools It does this from the vantage point of educators in a range of settings around the world as they engage in dialogue with one another in order to capture the nature of their professional commitment the knowledge they bring to their work as literature teachers and the challenges of their professional practice as they interact with their students The core of the book comprises accounts of their day to day teaching by Dutch and Australian educators These teachers do more than capture the immediacy of the here and now of their classrooms they attempt to understand those classrooms relationally exploring the ways in which their professional practice is mediated by government policies national literary traditions and existing traditions of curriculum and pedagogy They thereby enact a form of literary praxis that grapples with major ideological issues most notably the impact of standards based reforms on their work Educators from other countries then comment on the cases written by the Dutch and Australian teachers thus taking the concept of praxis to a new level as part of a comparative inquiry that acknowledges the richly specific character of the cases and resists viewing teaching around the world as though it lends itself unproblematically to the same standards of measurement as in the fetish made of PISA They step back from a judgmental stance and try to understand what it means to teach literature in other educational settings than their own The essays in this collection show the complexities of literature teaching as a form of professional praxis exploring the intensely reflexive learning in which teachers engage as they induct their students into reading literary texts and reflect on the socio cultural contexts of their work

Learner Autonomy Across Cultures D. Palfreyman, R. Smith, 2003-11-03 What does autonomy mean within language learning Should it be enhanced within national institutional or small group culture and if so how can that be done A variety of new theoretical perspectives are here firmly anchored in research data from projects worldwide By foregrounding cultural issues and thus explicitly addressing the concerns of many educators on the appropriateness and feasibility of developing learner autonomy in practice this book fills a gap in the literature and offers practical benefits to language teachers
