Introspection in Biography Samuel H Baron, Carl Plutsch, 2019-09-30 Most of the essays offered here are revised versions of papers first prepared for an invitational conference on The Psychology of Biography held in Chapel Hill November 12 14 1981 The conference which was funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities brought together twelve biographers including historians literary scholars political scientists and psychoanalysts each of whom had composed an introspective essay describing his experience of the biographical process Each participant was invited to proceed in whatever manner seemed appropriate to him but all were encouraged as well to address a number of questions that we regard as central to this inquiry Why did I decide to write a biography and how did I select a subject How did I achieve insight into the internal life of my protagonist In what ways did I put my personal stamp on the portrait I produced As a result of protracted involvement with the subject did the latter influence my life and if so how The contributors have responded to these questions in varying degrees but they provide evidence enough to permit for the first time some systematic treatment of these and subsidiary questions On the other hand each paper is marked by an individual approach and style Taken as a whole these uncommonly intimate and self revealing essays illuminate many aspects of the biographical enterprise The collaborative character of the symposium deserves emphasis It began with the request that the contributors to be all address a number of specific questions It continued with the cooperation of a majority of the contributors with a psychoanalyst or clinical psychologist as an aspect of the preparation of their papers More on this in a moment It went a step further at the conference itself which served as a forum for an exchange of views so stimulating that it prompted the participants to undertake to revise their papers Moreover the conferees were so impressed by the frequent flashes of illumination most often touched off by Dr George Moraitis that they asked him to compose an additional essay an afterword for this volume to bring to a wider public the workings pitfalls and potentialities of the collaborative method

Craft and Spirit Joseph D. Lichtenberg, 2013-09-05 In Craft and Spirit Joseph Lichtenberg writes of the craft of exploratory psychotherapy by which he means the creative skill even artistry that mobilizes the spirit of inquiry in therapist and patient and sustains it over the course of psychotherapy He expatiates on this craft as it pertains to patients of our time patients who typically bring to therapy backgrounds of insecure attachment and serious concerns about safety and retraumatization In each of ten chapters Lichtenberg formulates a different guideline for technique keyed to the broad domain of exploratory psychotherapies and are accompanied by numerous clinical illustrations. These guidelines seek to foster greater therapist involvement without compromising an openness to psychological exploration. They seek to sensitize therapists to the two interlacing tracks of communication that unfold in treatment: those of verbal exchange and of enactive messages. And they help guide therapist attention among interpenetrating domains of the patient's subjectivity, the therapist's subjectivity, and the intersubjective realm that emerges from their collaborative experience. Fusing the humanist tradition of therapeutic inquiry with knowledge gained from recent infancy and child research, Lichtenberg develops guidelines suitable to exploratory therapy with patients who communicate not only verbally but also through diverse affect states and altered cognitions. Consistently illuminating on the parallels and disjunctions between caregiver-child and therapist-patient relationships, Lichtenberg is clear about the adult-to-adult dimension of exploratory work in which provision is necessarily subordinate to inquiry. Craft and Spirit is aimed equally at prospective patients, therapists, and analysts, all of whom will be edified by this masterful demonstration of the ways in which a spirit of inquiry imbues the craft of psychotherapy in Lichtenberg's words with its liveliness of sustained purpose.

This book is intended not only for stress and coping researchers but also for social and behavioral science researchers at various levels, from students, instructors, and advisors to applied researchers, research methodologists, and theorists. The five chapters in Section II address the major methodological issues of mixed methods research.
