Talking Health Conventional And Complementary Approaches:

Talking Health Clive Wood, 1988 Can conventional medicine meet the needs of every patient Can current interest in complementary therapies be explained simply by communication problems between doctors and patients Have technological advances in modern medicine resulted in de personalization and is the modern hospice movement society's reaction Is complementary medicine scientific and is there any proof that it works Should complementary practitioners be included in multidisciplinary teams to provide whole person care Is there a role for Christian counselling How does the layman view the medical scene What are the implications of the present trend towards self health

Complementary Medicine Today

Ursula Sharma, 1992 Complementary Medicine Today provides an examination of current British medical practice and demonstrates the ways in which the social sciences can clarify some of the practical political and ethical issues raised by alternative health care

Teratologies Jackie Stacey, 2013-07-23 Stories of cancer are full of monster and marvels the monstrosity of the disease and the treatments the marvels of the cures and the saved lives Still one of the most dreaded diseases to haunt our imaginations cancer is more than an illness it is a cultural phenomenon People who have cancer are bombarded with competing explanations of their conditions it is genetically inherited it is environmentally produced it is the result of their personality Teratologies A Cultural Study of Cancer investigates how this disease is perceived experienced and theorised in contemporary society It explores changing beliefs about the causes of and the cures for cancer in both biomedicine and its increasingly popular alternative counterparts Analysing conventional and alternative medical accounts self help manuals and patients personal stories Jackie Stacey takes a critical look at the place of heroes metaphors the self and the body in these competing bids to produce the authoritative definition of the meaning of cancer today Interspersed with these detailed textual investigations are discussions of broader issues such as the feminist debates about the history of science the place of consumer culture in health practices and the status of patients and of health professionals in postmodern society Combining autobiographical narratives with contemporary theoretical debates the author carves out a specifically feminist analysis of the cultural dimensions of cancer She brings accounts of her own illness under the critical lens of academic scrutiny and situates these personal stories within a discussion of contemporary cultural change
