Tambo Life In An Andean Village:

Tambo Julia Meyerson, 2010-07-05 Perhaps the best way to sharpen one's powers of observation is to be a stranger in a strange land. Julia Meyerson was one such stranger during a year in the village of Tambo, Peru, where her husband was conducting anthropological fieldwork. Though sometimes overwhelmed by the differences between Quechua and North American culture, she still sought eagerly to understand the lifeways of Tambo and to find her place in the village. Her vivid observations recorded in this field journal admirably follow Henry James's advice: Try to be one of the people upon whom nothing is lost. With an artist's eye, Meyerson records the daily life of Tambo: the cycles of planting and harvest, the round of religious and cultural festivals, her tentative beginnings of friendship and understanding with the Tamboinos. The journal charts her progress from tolerated outsider to accepted friend as she and her husband learn and earn the roles of daughter and son in their adopted family. With its wealth of ethnographic detail, especially concerning the lives of Andean women, Tambo will have great value for students of Latin American anthropology. In addition, scholars preparing to do fieldwork anywhere will find it a realistic account of both the hardships and the rewards of such study.

Life and death of a rural village in Garamantian Times. Archaeological investigations in the oasis of Fewet (Libyan Sahara)

Lucia Mori, 2013-12-01 This volume presents the results of the archaeological investigations in the oasis of Fewet, SW Libyan Sahara, carried out by the Archaeological Mission in the Sahara of the Sapienza University of Rome. Evidences of an ancient rural village were identified under the houses of the modern town of Tan Afella and a large necropolis dated to the Garamantian times spread at the fringes of the modern settlement. Until 1997 very little was known on the Garamantian period in the Wadi Tanazzuft area and on the transition from the pastoral to the early historical phase. This period witnessed the gradual sedentarisation of human groups in the oases and the development of caravan routes with the flourishing of an intra and trans-Saharan trade. These processes also influenced by significant alterations in climate which led to the agricultural exploitation of the limited areas where water resources were available, the oases were archaeologically unknown as far as settlements were concerned. The archaeological surveys and excavations carried out in the area of Fewet were particularly promising and are here analysed in a multidisciplinary perspective which takes into consideration environmental and anthropological studies in the attempt to reconstruct the culture and the life of people inhabiting the Southern Fezzan region in early historical times. The historical archaeology of the Sahara remains an underdeveloped field of research, especially for the pre-Islamic period. The most significant exception to this rule has for long concerned the people known as the Garamantes who inhabited the central Saharan region coincident with Libya's south-west province Fezzan. This volume is a marvelous addition to the small corpus of published research on the Pre-Islamic oasis societies of the Sahara and provides a complementary perspective on the world of the Garamantes to the Anglo-Libyan work I have directed from their heartlands in the Wadi el Ajal, c. 400 km to north-east of Ghat. Woven Stories Andrea M. Heckman, 2003 The Quechua people of southern Peru are both agriculturalists and herders who maintain large herds of alpacas and llamas But they are also weavers and it is through weaving that their cultural traditions are passed down over the generations Owing to the region's isolation the textile symbols forms of clothing and technical processes remain strongly linked to the people's environment and their ancestors Heckman's photographs convey the warmth and vitality of the Quechua people and illustrate how the land is intricately woven into their lives and their beliefs Quechua weavers in the mountainous regions near Cuzco Peru produce certain textile forms and designs not found elsewhere in the Andes Their textiles are a legacy of their Andean ancestors Andrea Heckman has devoted more than twenty years to documenting and analyzing the ways Andean beliefs persist over time in visual symbols embedded in textiles and portrayed in rituals Her primary focus is the area around the sacred peak of Ausangate in southern Peru some eighty five miles southeast of the former Inca capital of Cuzco The core of this book is an ethnographic account of the textiles and their place in daily life that considers how the form and content of Quechua patterns and designs pass stories down and preserve traditions as well as how the ritual use of textiles sustain a sense of community and a connection to the past Heckman concludes by assessing the influences of the global economy on indigenous Quechua who maintain their own worldview within the larger fabric of twentieth century cultural values and hence have survived everything from Latin American militarism to a tidal wave of post modern change

Gender and the Boundaries of Dress in Contemporary Peru Blenda

Femenías, 2010-01-01 Set in Arequipa during Peru's recent years of crisis this ethnography reveals how dress creates gendered bodies It explores why people wear clothes why people make art and why those things matter in a war torn land Blenda Femenías argues that women's clothes are key symbols of gender identity and resistance to racism Moving between metropolitan Arequipa and rural Caylloma Province the central characters are the Quechua and Spanish speaking maize farmers and alpaca herders of the Colca Valley Their identification as Indians whites and mestizos emerges through locally produced garments called bordados Because the artists who create these beautiful objects are also producers who carve an economic foothold family workshops are vital in a nation where jobs are as scarce as peace But ambiguity permeates all practices shaping bordados significance Femenías traces contemporary political and ritual applications not only Caylloma's long standing and violent ethnic conflicts to the historical importance of cloth since Inca times This is the only book about expressive culture in an Andean nation that centers on gender In this feminist contribution to ethnography based on twenty years experience with Peru including two years of intensive fieldwork Femenías reflects on the ways gender shapes relationships among subjects research and representation

The Wayfinders

Wade Davis, 2009-10-01 Every culture is a unique answer to a fundamental question What does it mean to be human and alive In The Wayfinders renowned anthropologist winner of the prestigious Samuel Johnson Prize and National Geographic Explorer in Residence Wade Davis leads us on a thrilling journey to celebrate the wisdom of the world's indigenous cultures In Polynesia we set sail with navigators whose ancestors settled the Pacific ten centuries before Christ In the Amazon we meet the descendants of a true lost civilization the Peoples of the Anaconda In the Andes we discover that the earth really is alive while in Australia we experience Dreamtime the all embracing philosophy of the first humans to walk out of Africa We then travel to Nepal where we encounter a wisdom hero a Bodhisattva who emerges from forty five years of Buddhist retreat and solitude And finally we settle in Borneo where the last rainforest nomads struggle to survive Understanding the lessons of this journey will be our mission for the next century For at risk is the human legacy a vast archive of knowledge and expertise a catalogue of the imagination Rediscovering a new appreciation for the diversity of the human spirit as expressed by culture is among the central challenges of our time
