Toxic Aid Sebastian Edwards, 2014-04-24 For many years Tanzania was the darling of international aid agencies During the 1970s it received more assistance per capita than any other nation in the world And yet the economy performed dismally growth was negative exports collapsed and poverty increased massively In the mid 1980s however the international community changed tacks and developed an approach based on conditionality and program ownership Since 1996 the country has grown steadily and social conditions have improved significantly This book provides an economic history of Tanzania since independence in 1961 It covers the policies of African Socialism and the Arusha Declaration the collapse of the early 1980s the rocky relationships with the IMF and the reforms of the 1990s and 2000s

The Delusion of Knowledge Transfer Susanne Koch, Peter Weingart, 2016-12-13 With the rise of the knowledge for development paradigm expert advice has become a prime instrument of foreign aid At the same time it has been object of repeated criticism the chronic failure of technical assistance a notion under which advice is commonly subsumed has been documented in a host of studies Nonetheless international organisations continue to send advisors promising to increase the effectiveness of expert support if their technocratic recommendations are taken up This book reveals fundamental problems of expert advice in the context of aid that concern issues of power and legitimacy rather than merely flaws of implementation Based on empirical evidence from South Africa and Tanzania the authors show that aid related advisory processes are inevitably obstructed by colliding interests political pressures and hierarchical relations that impede knowledge transfer and mutual learning As a result recipient governments find themselves caught in a perpetual cycle of dependency continuously advised by experts who convey the shifting paradigms and agendas of their respective donor governments For young democracies the persistent presence of external actors is hazardous ultimately it poses a threat to the legitimacy of their governments if their policy making becomes more responsive to foreign demands than to the preferences and needs of their citizens

Globalization and Challenges for Development in Tanzania Lucian A. Msambichaka, N. E. A. Mwamba, Oswald Mashindano, 2006 The Political Economy of Africa Vishnu Padayachee, 2010-06-10 The Political Economy of Africa aims to fill a major gap in the existing literature by exploring the economy and economics of Africa The book has a critical approach from the perspective of political economy rather than mainstream economics This book addresses the seemingly intractable economic problems of the African continent and trace their origins but also always to bring out the instances of successful economic change and the possibilities for economic revival and renewal Turbulence and Order in Economic Development Hazel Gray,2018-02-08 The terms of debate on the role of institutions in economic development are changing Stable market institutions in particular secure private property rights and democratically accountable governments that uphold the rule of law are widely seen to be a pre requisite for economic transformation in low income countries yet over the last thirty years economic growth and structural transformation has surged forward in a range of countries where market and state institutions have differed these ideals as well as from each other Turbulence and Order in Economic Development studies the role of the state in two such countries examining the interplay between market liberalization institutions and the distribution of power in Tanzania and Vietnam Tanzania and Vietnam were two of the poorest countries in the world in the early 1980s but over the last thirty years both have experienced significant changes in the pace and character of economic development While both countries experienced faster rates of GDP growth their paths of economic transformation were very different as Vietnam experienced rapid poverty reduction associated with the expansion of manufacturing while Tanzania s path of industrialization was characterized by the rise of mining and a much slower pace of poverty reduction Employing a political settlements approach this book considers the comparative role of the state in driving economic transformation In both countries the experiences of socialism continued to shape the role of the state in the economy even after extensive market liberalization however the distribution of political and economic power was very different This had important consequences for the overlapping role of the state in generating political order and in driving economic transformation Turbulence and Order in Economic Development studies the formal and informal ways that the state influenced economic transformation through its role in public financial management land and industrial policy The African Journal of Finance and Management ,2002 International African Bibliography ,2002 Promoting Adolescent Sexual and Reproductive Health in East and Southern Africa Knut-Inge Klepp,Alan J. Flisher,Sylvia F. Kaaya,2008 In Africa as in many parts of the world adolescent reproductive health is a controversial issue for policy makers and programme planners Adolescents are particularly vulnerable to HIV and AIDS and to a host of other problems such as sexually transmitted infection unwanted pregnancy unsafe abortions sexual abuse female genital mutilation and unsafe circumcision Yet many countries do not have adolescent health policies in place and much remains to be done to ensure that adolescents can access appropriate sexual and reproductive health services The authors of this volume present new perspectives and strategies to promote adolescent sexual and reproductive health In particular they make a unique attempt to bring together social and biomedical science and to disseminate concrete empirical evidence from existing programmes carefully analysing what works and what does not at the local level Contested Space Alison Brown,2006 Based on a research study in four developing cities Dar Es Salaam Kumasi Maseru and Kathmandu Contested Space explores
