Race, Nation, and Citizenship in Postcolonial Africa Ronald Aminzade, 2013-10-31 Nationalism has generated violence, bloodshed, and genocide as well as patriotic sentiments that encourage people to help fellow citizens and place public responsibilities above personal interests. This study explores the contradictory character of African nationalism as it unfolded over decades of Tanzanian history in conflicts over public policies concerning the rights of citizens, foreigners, and the nation's Asian racial minority. These policy debates reflected a history of racial oppression and foreign domination and were shaped by a quest for economic development, racial justice, and national self-reliance.

Colonial Justice and Decolonization in the High Court of Tanzania, 1920-1971 Ellen R. Feingold, 2018-02-09 This book is the first study of the development and decolonization of a British colonial high court in Africa. It traces the history of the High Court of Tanzania from its establishment in 1920 to the end of its institutional process of decolonization in 1971. This process involved disentangling the High Court from colonial state structures and imperial systems that were built on racial inequality while simultaneously increasing the independence of the judiciary and application of British judicial principles. Feingold weaves together the rich history of the Court with a discussion of its judges both as members of the British Colonial Legal Service and as individuals to explore the impacts and intersections of imperial policies, national politics, and individual initiative.

Colonial Justice and Decolonization in the High Court of Tanzania is a powerful reminder of the crucial roles played by common law courts in the operation and legitimization of both colonial and post-colonial states.

Elites and Decolonization in the Twentieth Century Jost Dülffer, Marc Frey, 2011-04-05 Decolonization changed the spatial order of the globe, the imagination of men and women around the world, and established images of the globe. Both individuals and social groups shaped decolonization itself; this volume puts agency squarely at the centre of debate by looking at elites and leaders who changed the course of history across the world.

Generations Past Andrew Burton, Hélène Charton-Bigot, 2010-09-15 Contemporary Africa is demographically characterized above all else by its youthfulness. In East Africa, the median age of the population is now a striking 17.5 years, and more than 65 percent of the population is age 24 or under. This situation has attracted growing scholarly attention, resulting in an important and rapidly expanding literature on the position of youth in African societies. While the scholarship examining the contemporary role of youth in African societies is rich and growing, the historical dimension has been largely neglected in the literature thus far. Generations Past seeks to address this gap through a wide-ranging selection of essays that covers an array of youth-related themes in historical perspective Thirteen chapters explore the historical dimensions of youth in nineteenth twentieth and twenty first century Ugandan Tanzanian and Kenyan societies Key themes running through the book include the analytical utility of youth as a social category intergenerational relations and the passage of time youth as a social and political problem sex and gender roles among East African youth and youth as historical agents of change The strong list of contributors includes prominent scholars of the region and the collection encompasses a good geographical spread of all three East African countries

A History of Irish Autobiography Liam Harte, 2018-03-01 A History of Irish Autobiography is the first ever critical survey of autobiographical self representation in Ireland from its recoverable beginnings to the twenty first century The book draws on a wealth of original scholarship by leading experts to provide an authoritative examination of autobiographical writing in the English and Irish languages Beginning with a comprehensive overview of autobiography theory and criticism in Ireland the History guides the reader through seventeen centuries of Irish achievement in autobiography a category that incorporates diverse literary forms from religious tracts and travelogues to letters diaries and online journals This ambitious book is rich in insight Chapters are structured around key subgenres themes texts and practitioners each featuring a guide to recommended further reading The volume s extensive coverage is complemented by a detailed chronology of Irish autobiography from the fifth century to the contemporary era the first of its kind to be published

Making a World after Empire Christopher J. Lee, 2010-06-15 In April 1955 twenty nine countries from Africa Asia and the Middle East came together for a diplomatic conference in Bandung Indonesia intending to define the direction of the postcolonial world Representing approximately two thirds of the world s population the Bandung conference occurred during a key moment of transition in the mid twentieth century amid the global wave of decolonization that took place after the Second World War and the nascent establishment of a new cold war world order in its wake Participants such as Jawaharlal Nehru of India Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt Zhou Enlai of China and Ahmed Sukarno of Indonesia seized this occasion to attempt the creation of a political alternative to the dual threats of Western neocolonialism and the cold war interventionism of the United States and the Soviet Union The essays in this volume explore the diverse repercussions of this event tracing the diplomatic intellectual and sociocultural histories that have emanated from it Making a World after Empire consequently addresses the complex intersection of postcolonial history and cold war history and speaks to contemporary discussions of Afro Asianism empire and decolonization thus reestablishing the conference s importance in twentieth century global history Contributors Michael Adas Laura Bier James R Brennan G Thomas Burgess Antoinette Burton Dipesh Chakrabarty Julian Go Christopher J Lee Jamie Monson Jeremy Prestholdt Denis M Tull

Taifa James R. Brennan, 2012-05-29 Taifa is a story of African intellectual agency but it is also an account of how nation and race emerged out of the legal social and economic histories in one major city Dar es Salaam Nation and race both translatable as taifa in Swahili were not simply universal ideas brought to Africa by European colonizers as previous studies assume They were instead categories crafted by local

African thinkers to make sense of deep inequalities particularly those between local Africans and Indian immigrants Taifa shows how nation and race became the key political categories to guide colonial and postcolonial life in this African city Using deeply researched archival and oral evidence Taifa transforms our understanding of urban history and shows how concerns about access to credit and housing became intertwined with changing conceptions of nation and nationhood Taifa gives equal attention to both Indians and Africans in doing so it demonstrates the significance of political and economic connections between coastal East Africa and India during the era of British colonialism and illustrates how the project of racial nationalism largely severed these connections by the 1970s

Building a Peaceful Nation Paul Bjerk, 2015 A compelling account of the establishment of Tanzania's stable and ambitious government in the face of external threats and internal turmoil

Fighting for Britain David Killingray, 2012 Based mainly on oral evidence and soldiers' letters tells the story of over half a million African troops who served with the British Army in campaigns in the Horn of Africa, the Middle East, Italy and Burma Looks at the impact of army life and travel on the men and their families and the role of ex-servicemen in post-war nationalist politics

Tanzania and the Liberation Struggle in Southern Africa, 1958-1975 Azaria Mbughuni, 2006

Encyclopedia of the United Nations and International Agreements: T to Z Edmund Jan Osmańczyk, 2003 This thoroughly revised and updated edition is the most comprehensive and detailed reference ever published on United Nations The book demystifies the complex workings of the world's most important and influential international body

Dar es Salaam. Histories from an Emerging African Metropolis James R. Brennan, Andrew Burton, Yusufu Qwaray Lawi, 2007 From its modest beginnings in the 1860s Dar es Salaam has grown to become one of Africa's most important urban centres A major political, economic and cultural hub the city has also acted as a crucible of local social and cultural innovation exerting a powerful influence on wider Tanzanian society Reflecting important contemporary socio-economic trends of urban Africa it has recently attracted the attention of a diverse range of scholars from several disciplines This collection draws on the best of this scholarship

Federations Chad Rector, 2011-02-23 Why would states ever give up their independence to join federations While federation can provide more wealth or security than self-sufficiency states can in principle get those benefits more easily by cooperating through international organizations such as alliances or customs unions Chad Rector develops a new theory that states federate when their leaders expect benefits from closer military or economic cooperation but also expect that cooperation via an international organization would put some of the states in a vulnerable position open to extortion from their erstwhile partners The potentially vulnerable states hold out refusing to join alliances or customs unions and only agreeing to military and economic cooperation under a federal constitution Rector examines several historical cases the making of a federal Australia and the eventual exclusion of New Zealand from the union the decisions made within Buenos Aires and Prussia to build Argentina and Germany largely through federal contracts rather than conquests and the failures of postindependence unions in East Africa and the Caribbean

The Dilemmas of Social

Democracies Howard Richards, Joanna Swanger, 2006-01-01 The Dilemmas of Social Democracies seeks to advance the eradication of poverty and the ethical construction of social democracy and sustainable peace Howard Richards and Joanna Swanger argue that the reason that capitalism resists transformation and that social democracy is so hard to achieve is because of the philosophical and institutional underpinnings the constitutive rules of capitalism the book therefore explores the historical origins of these rules their implications for blocking progress toward social justice and how they can be improved

Nyerere Tom Molony, 2014 This book presents the first truly rounded portrait of Nyerere's early life from his birth in 1922 until his graduation from Edinburgh in 1952 helping us to see his later political achievements in a new light It was after returning to Tanganyika that Mwalimu the teacher formally entered politics and led efforts to deliver Tanganyika to independence Publishers website

Challenging Nature Philip W. Porter, 2006-03 Tanga Region Tanzania is an area of persistent rural poverty with a long history of drought floods food shortages famine and social and economic disruption Though farmers have been cultivating the land there for hundreds of years they have consistently been unable to supply adequate food for the region's inhabitants In Challenging Nature Philip Porter examines eighteen farming communities to understand what the farmers there know about their environment and which historical and economic factors play into the lack of food security Porter first began work on this project in 1972 asking 250 farmers in the region about life history environmental and agricultural changes types of crops grown and methods of planting environmental assessments agricultural practices food and water supplies training and education and attitudes toward nature Twenty years later he returned and reinterviewed as many farmers as could be found from the first survey The result contextualizes the environmental history of the region while informing current and future agricultural development
