taking into account the Reformation the printing press and growing interest in lay piety in the context of increasing individualism developing literacy privatization and or personalization of religion Contextualising devotional literature the volume refines understandings of religious practice fostered by traditional Catholicism and early modern Protestantism and its relationship with the written word locating the use of books within a devotional diet that included oral recitation of prayers as well as contemplation of images Stressing continuities often against the grain of existing literature this volume highlights differences between regional cultures of prayer in contrast to norms set by the universal Church and emphasizes the tension between public communal and private individual devotion

The Cambridge History of the Book in Britain

Richard Gameson, Lotte Hellinga, Nigel J. Morgan, Rodney M. Thomson, J. B. Trapp, John Barnard, David

McKitterick, 1999-12-09 This volume of The Cambridge History of the Book in Britain presents an overview of the century and a half between the death of Chaucer in 1400 and the incorporation of the Stationers Company in 1557 The profound changes during that time in social political and religious conditions are reflected in the dissemination and reception of the written word The manuscript culture of Chaucer's day was replaced by an ambience in which printed books would become the norm The emphasis in this collection of essays is on the demand and use of books Patterns of ownership are identified as well as patterns of where why and how books were written printed bound acquired read and passed from hand to hand The book trade receives special attention with emphasis on the large part played by imports and on links with printers in other countries which were decisive for the development of printing and publishing in Britain

Illuminating the Renaissance

Thomas Kren, Scot McKendrick, 2003-07-01 This comprehensive and richly illustrated catalogue focuses on the finest illustrated manuscripts produced in Europe during the great epoch in Flemish illumination During this aesthetically fertile period beginning in 1467 with the reign of the Burgundian duke Charles the Bold and ending in 1561 with the death of the artist Simon Bening the art of book painting was raised to a new level of sophistication. Sharing inspiration with the celebrated panel painters of the time, illuminators achieved astonishing innovations in the handling of color, light, texture, and space, creating a naturalistic style that would dominate tastes throughout Europe for nearly a century. Centering on the notable artists of the period—Simon Marmion, the Vienna Master of Mary of Burgundy, Gerard David, Gerard Horenbout, Bening, and others—the catalogue examines both devotional and secular manuscript illumination within a broad context: the place of illuminators within the visual arts, including artistic exchange between book painters and panel painters, the role of court patronage and the emergence of personal libraries, and the international appeal of the new Flemish illumination style. Contributors to the catalogue include Maryan W. Ainsworth, curator of European paintings at the Metropolitan Museum of Art; independent scholar Catherine Reynolds; and Elizabeth Morrison, assistant curator of manuscripts at the Getty Museum. Illuminating the Renaissance is published in conjunction with an exhibition organized by the Getty Museum, the Royal Academy of Arts, London, and the British Library, to be held at the Getty Museum from June 17 to September 7, 2003, and at the Royal Academy of Arts from November 25, 2003, to February 22, 2004.

Richard III and the Murder in the Tower Peter A. Hancock, 2011-08-26
Richard III is accused of murdering his nephews, the Princes in the Tower, in order to usurp the throne of England. Since Tudor times, he has been painted as the black legend, the murderous uncle. However, the truth is much more complicated and interesting. Rather than looking at all the killings, Richard III did not commit this book focuses on the one execution for which we know that he was responsible. On Friday, 13 June 1483, William Lord Hastings was hustled from a meeting of the Royal Council and summarily executed on Tower Green, within the confines of the Tower of London. Peter A. Hancock sheds light on the mystery of this precipitate and unadvised action by the then Duke of Gloucester and reveals the key role of William Catesby in Richard's ascent to the throne of England. It explains his curious actions during that tumultuous summer of three kings and provides an explanation for the fate of the Princes in the Tower.

Money, Morality, and Culture in Late Medieval and Early Modern Europe Juliann M. Vitullo, Diane Wolfthal, 2010
One of the first volumes to explore the intersection of economics, morality, and culture, this collection analyzes the role of the developing monetary economy in Western Europe from the twelfth to the seventeenth century. The contributors, scholars from the fields of history, literature, art history, and musicology, explore how money infiltrated every aspect of everyday life, modified notions of social identity, and encouraged debates about ethical uses of wealth.

The Use of Models in Medieval Book Painting Monika E. Müller, 2014-06-02
Until recently, the phenomenon of copying in medieval book painting has been considered mainly in terms of the reconstruction of pictorial sources used for the composition or iconography of miniatures, initials, or decorative elements. Although historic sources only rarely mention the circumstances of manuscripts' production, one particular widely accepted hypothesis has prevailed until now according to which artists used model drawings or sketch books with the aim of facilitating the production of copies and the creation of new picture cycles However it is no longer sufficient to regard medieval book painting in its diachronic dimension only through these lenses Rather one should consider Robert W Scheller s critique that When using the model hypothesis one must always be mindful of other factors which are known to have played a part in the transmission of art in the Middle Ages The contributions of this volume deal with these issues by focusing on book painting between the 10th and 16th centuries
