Promoting Inclusive Practice Lani Florian, Richard Rose, Christina Tilstone, 2002-09-11 Current policy demands that mainstream schools seek to include pupils with special educational needs. This book takes a close look at how exactly this aim can be achieved by examining the various parts of the educational process. The book discusses the practicalities of inclusive education, the gap between inclusive policy and practice, a reconfigured role for special schools, how the process of inclusion will develop beyond the classroom. Individuals who have learning difficulties are increasingly finding their place in non specialist schools. This book considers the ways in which society can continue to support the process of inclusion as full time education leads on to employment and independent living. The text reflects current developments in thinking and practice and brings together a broad range of expertise and experience. It brims with enthusiasm for a positive approach that leads on to practical success.

More Than a Music Box Andrew Crisell, 2006-04-01 Since the rise of television much radio consists of capsule news and music formats which are heard as background to other activities. However the medium offers a great deal more. This collection of essays shows how in North America the United Kingdom Europe Australia and the South Pacific radio continues to provide distinctive forms of content for the individual listener yet also enables ethnic and cultural groups to maintain their sense of identity. Ranging from radio among the primordial communities to digital broadcasting and the internet these essays suggest that the benefits and gratifications which radio confers remain unique and irreplaceable in this multi media age.
