

PRE- IMMERSION

TASK 1.2

Prepare an essay on how you will demonstrate and help yourself and educators to make the education successful in time of crisis.

Many people were pushed back and experienced financial issues as a result of the Covid 19 disclosure, and they are all adapting to the new normal in practically every industry. Regrettably, even the education industry has been changed and forced to switch to flexible learning, where the method of teaching is totally dependent on the circumstances of its participants.

As a student, I will help myself and educators to make education successful in times of crisis are to communicate them in any activities that they give us and to cooperate to them in giving task, also to giving respect to each other. It is important to have time to yourself for the reason if you drown you on school activities, there is a possibility to have an feeling anxiety and pressure. We have an opportunity to use our teaching personas, philosophies and practices to both help our students understand and manage the gravity of this current crisis and reassure them that we have some control, even in this uncertain situation, to create positive personal and professional experiences through our continuing academic connections. In time of crisis, we should have a long patience because some of the students may encounter some internet malfunctions and some financial problem. Communication is the best solution in this time of crisis because this is the best way to give the modules and activities to the educator to give in to the students. Also it is the best way to talk them one by one and explain clearly the activities. So that the student will understand what module is giving to them.

I'd like to emphasize the necessity of comprehending that we're all in this together, even if it means putting ourselves in danger of a pandemic. We never know what to expect from the world, especially in this enlightened modern day, and one thing is certain: we must always keep going forward.
