

A historical painting depicting five men in 16th-century attire, likely Dutch or Flemish, seated at a table. They are wearing dark clothing with prominent white ruffled collars. The man on the far left is older with a white beard. The others are younger, with some having beards. They are looking towards the left. A large, ornate rug with a red and black geometric pattern is on the floor. A scroll lies on the rug. The background features a window with a diamond-patterned glass and a potted plant. The overall style is characteristic of the Northern Renaissance.
