McCartan, 2025-09-17 When it was originally published in 1986 this book was one of the few to be written on social skills and mental health specifically for nurses Yet it is nurses who are uniquely placed to improve the skills of those with mental illness since it is they who often have most contact with patients or clients This book examines the place of social skills training in the practice of psychiatric nursing It provides relevant background to the evidence for limited social skills in psychiatric patients and the expanding role of the nurse and considers more practical elements such as selection and assessment of patients for a programme goal setting role play feedback and group versus individual approaches The book also analyses relevant skills themselves such as nonverbal communication and being assertive The book is aimed at both trained and student psychiatric nurses

Psychological Treatment of Older Adults Michel Hersen, Vincent B. Van Hasselt, 2013-06-29 This multiauthored introductory textbook could not have been conceived or brought to fruition 10 or 15 years ago Indeed at that time relatively little attention was accorded to the psychological needs of older adults The general tenor of the field then was that older adults would not benefit from psychological intervention As we now know this was a faulty assumption that has been discredited with empirical data Indeed clinical research data adduced primarily in the last decade clearly documents that older adults do benefit from specific psychotherapies that are tailored to their unique presentation of symptoms Given the explosion of interest in this area as evinced by increased investigatory activity national funding and media attention and the increased number of masters and doctoral level courses devoted to this topic we felt that the time was right for a textbook in the area Such flurry of activity also has been fueled by statistics showing how our population by the year 2030 will consist of 30% who are senior citizens Moreover since 12% of older adults in the community are estimated to have diagnosable psychiatric disorders and 40% to 50% of older adult medical inpatients have a concomitant psychiatric disorder the task for clinicians in the next century will be overwhelming

Motivating Your Secondary Class Maurice Galton,Susan Steward,Linda Hargreaves,2009-09-10 Why do so many pupils in Years 7 8 and 9 switch off and make very little progress in the core subjects such as English and mathematics What can teachers and schools do to improve pupils attitudes and motivation Maurice Galton and his team have collected examples from various schools of what works in re energising demotivated pupils This book presents practical advice and strategies for improving lower secondary school classrooms ranging from reducing class size to innovative induction programmes emphasising the development of core study skills and developing effective procedures to train pupils to cooperate rather than confront each other during lessons Chapters cover Making a Good Start to Secondary Education Creating a Cooperative Classroom Climate Improving Communication between Pupils and Teachers Why are some classrooms more successful How can school structures influence positive relationships The book is a much needed resource for all secondary teachers and is particularly useful for year and subject heads The Health and Social Needs of Young Adults with Physical Disabilities Andrew Thomas,Martin Bax,Diane Smyth,1989 This book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities Following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural The study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance They have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way Parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support These findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an Adult Disability Service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services Although this work relates specifically to service provision in the United Kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries
