Storytelling in a Culturally Responsive Classroom Laura A. Mitchell, 2018-11-02 The authentic storytelling process gives students the opportunity to include their heritage language and culture into the learning process at school Often students separate their heritage language and culture from the school culture They do this in order to survive the complexity of living in dual worlds or perspectives Belenky et al 1986 When teachers integrate the heritage language such as storytelling into the authentic literacy processes students find that their heritage language and culture has value They discover that their teachers encourage the traditional storytelling of their own heritage stories in the classrooms among their classmates This brings the dual perspective of living in two distinct worlds together The culturally responsive teachers help to merge both the home and school culture together through authentic literacy This book describes how culturally responsive teachers learn to navigate between the heritage languages of their students and the dominant language of their curriculum and instruction They know to ask questions such as Who are the storytellers in your home and what stories do they tell you This form of questioning opens up the thinking process that shows literacy comes in more forms and processes than just a book As culturally responsive teachers invite different forms of literacy to be shared in the classroom they bring the authentic lives of storytellers into their classroom The students can retell the stories that they were told by their storytellers Through this storytelling process both the culturally responsive teachers and the students inform them about who they are how they are connect with others and how they interdependent on others Students tell stories that inform them about who they are and how they are connected with others so they will know that they are human They can live in a world of possibilities where they are interconnected with literacy and interdependent with each other in order to be human They are describing what Greene 1995 described as looking into each other s eyes in order to encourage them to tell their stories about who they are and who they hope to be

Christopher Bontjes,2013-10-08 It s a challenge every teacher faces finding ways to get and keep the attention of their students getting them to engage fully in the lessons In today s world of constant connection to media and entertainment through television and the Internet it is harder than ever Add to that the pressures of NCLB Common Core State Standards and the Danielson evaluation model putting full responsibility for student learning and growth on the teacher and we have reached a crisis How can teachers compete with this constant stream of personalized entertainment They must learn to think and teach as entertainers This is not as revolutionary a concept as it may sound The word entertain is defined as to pleasantly hold attention So teachers already entertain their students So no problem right Wrong Teachers are now competing for the attention of their students And the competition is fierce They are up against professional entertainers who have spent years studying the art of entertainment without having to worry about teaching as well Teachers are trained in their subjects but not in the methods and techniques used by entertainment professionals Teachers must learn to plan and to think as the professional entertainers do Only then can they effectively compete Only then can they Create Captivating Classes Christopher Bontjes has more than 40 years of experience in designing shows and entertaining audiences of all ages from the stage He also has more than 25 years of experience as a classroom teacher Because his teaching specialty is music he has had the opportunity to teach students ranging in age from Kindergarten through adult In Create Captivating Classes Why NCLB Should Mean No Child Left Bored Bontjes shares the techniques used by entertainment professionals to keep audiences glued to their seats and begging for more He then applies each technique to the classroom showing teachers step by step how to use each idea in the classroom to keep students riveted to lessons and anxious to learn more These ideas and techniques are effective with all students They work regardless of age or socio economic background They work not because of who students are but because of what students are HUMAN Every teacher has students they struggle to reach Create Captivating Classes will add a myriad of new ideas to your educational bag of tricks Order your copy today and learn to Create Captivating Classes

Media Ethics at Work: True Stories from Young Professionals Lee Anne Peck,2013 The drawback of most media ethics books is they examine dilemmas faced by seasoned media managers and ignore situations faced by students as they enter the workforce Lee Ann Peck and Guy S Reel's Media Ethics at Work helps students assemble a toolkit for dealing with ethical issues on the job At the heart of the book are 23 cases true stories of problems encountered by recent professionals working in news advertising and public relations Each story is presented as a narrative so readers can ponder What would I do if this happened to me When they've finished the book they'll feel prepared with an array of theoretical and practical approaches for thinking on their feet Cases include Tool for Thought and Tool for Action boxes application of a theory or professional ethics code and practical how to tips Thinking it Through questions What If scenarios and Go Online for More Telling Sexual Stories Ken Plummer, 2002-11-01 This book explores the rites of a sexual story telling culture and examines the nature of these newly emerging narratives and the socio historical conditions that have given rise to them Writing in-Between Nandita Dinesh, 2023-11-14 Writing in Between lies at intersections between theory and praxis between fiction and non fiction between author and reader between the personal and the political Beginning with a conceptual glossary that prepares readers for their journey through the book Dinesh offers two central texts to invite readers to become co creators The first F for ____ is written as an academic novella and culminates with an interactive section that is composed of guided invitations for the reader co creator The second text July's takes the form of a dramatic memoir and intersperses invitations for readers co creators between each of its chapters Dinesh brings these threads together in an entirely interactive concluding chapter where her hopes for collaborative meaning making take centre stage In all of its unique invitations to engage Dinesh's readers co creators can either choose to craft their creations in personal notebooks or blank spaces in this work's physical copy or to engage more publicly via virtual forums that can be accessed via QR codes and accompanying links that are scattered throughout the book Guided by questions about writing can do questions that have shaped Dinesh's work as an artist scholar and educator for almost two decades Writing in Between embodies one central tenet that the significance of performative writing might be most powerfully experienced through a collaborative process of meaning making between a text's author and its readers turned co creators How to answer to an atheist Roope Berg, 2025-06-12 In today's debate about religion and Christianity atheism seems to be dominant And anyway at least in Western countries atheism seems to be the dominant ideology One reason for this seems to be that Christians that is Jesus disciples do not know their own matter well Atheists have many websites to help them in the discussion where attacks against Christianity are collected but the greatest help for them is the ignorance of Christians in many matters Of course Christians also have their own websites where there are ready made answers But in many cases those answers seem to be a bit incomplete which gives the opponent an advantage The saddest part of ignorance is that many wrong and false perceptions are unleashed when people don't know how to correct them It can easily lead many to abandon Christianity and also prevents many from choosing Christianity Everyone should be free to choose whether to believe the message but it would be good if the choice were based on correct information and not just one often distorted view on the matter This book examines many of the questions and answers related to Christianity that have come up in discussions The book is not intended to make you a believer and you don't even have to agree with the ideas The goal is to provide an alternative to what otherwise seems to be quite one-sided thinking and hopefully help you understand things related to Christianity better

Ontology, Modality and the Fallacy of Reference Michael Jubien, 1993-08-27 This is a book about the concept of a physical thing and about how the names of things relate to the things they name It questions the prevalent view that names refer to or denote the things they name Instead it presents a new theory of proper names according to which names express certain special properties that the things they name exhibit This theory leads to some important conclusions about whether things have any of their properties as a matter of necessity This will be an important book for philosophers in metaphysics and the philosophy of language though it will also interest linguists concerned with the semantics of natural language
