Tatum, 2023-10-10 The racial achievement gap in literacy is one of the most difficult issues in education today and nowhere does it manifest itself more perniciously than in the case of black adolescent males Approaching the problem from the inside author Alfred Tatum brings together his various experiences as a black male student middle school teacher working with struggling black male readers reading specialist in an urban elementary school and staff developer in classrooms across the nation His book Teaching Reading to Black Adolescent Males Closing the Achievement Gap addresses the adolescent shift black males face and the societal experiences unique to them that can hinder academic progress With an authentic and honest voice Tatum bridges the connections among theory instruction and professional development to create a roadmap for better literacy achievement He presents practical suggestions for providing reading strategy instruction and assessment that is explicit meaningful and culturally responsive as well as guidelines for selecting and discussing nonfiction and fiction texts with black males The author's first hand insights provide middle school and high school teachers reading specialists and administrators with new perspectives to help schools move collectively toward the essential goal of literacy achievement for all Research, Practice, and Innovations in Teacher Education During a Virtual Age Zimmerman, Aaron Samuel, 2022-11-18 Decades of research have shown that early career teachers face a number of challenges and hold an increasingly wide set of responsibilities Teacher educators therefore must think carefully about how to prepare early career teachers for the profession. Additionally, however, the work of teaching and teacher education has become increasingly complex within the context of the current virtual age, including the prominent reality of social media and the significant possibilities of online teaching and learning. Research Practice and Innovations in Teacher Education During a Virtual Age makes a significant contribution to the scholarship on teacher education by presenting a variety of evidence-based methods that can be used to develop and improve aspects of teacher education within this virtual age, including the curriculum and pedagogy of online teacher education as well as effective ways to prepare preservice teachers for the realities of online teaching and online learning. Covering topics such as virtual caring, learning material adaptation, and instructional coaching, this premier reference source is a dynamic resource for teacher educators, preservice teachers, administrators, and educators of both K-12 and higher education, government officials, policymakers, researchers, and academicians.

Manifesto for Learning Janet Collins, Joe Harkin, Melanie Nind, 2010-07-15 What makes people learn effectively? What can we do to promote more effective learning? Innumerable researchers have studied these important and urgent questions, yet their findings tend to be fragmentary and disparate. Now Janet Collins, Joe Harkin, and Melanie Nind provide the big picture. Drawing on research from all sectors of education, the authors show that effective learning depends crucially on a few easily understood principles. These principles hold true regardless of the age or nature of the learner or the context in which the learner is working. Manifesto for Learning explains those principles and how to apply them, showing in the process how to make the vision of an effective learning society a reality.

Readers will receive helpful teaching suggestions that offer a strong link between theory and practice, as well as important descriptions of the pitfalls that arise in reader response work in classrooms.
