techniques is crucial for addressing food security challenges while minimizing environmental harm. The book uniquely assesses the potential of terracing, a key adaptation to varied landscapes, and offers insights into sustainable land management. The book progresses systematically, beginning with an introduction to wet and dry rice cultivation and their historical context. It then critically examines the ecological consequences, such as water usage and biodiversity loss. Finally, it showcases innovative approaches like alternate wetting and drying irrigation to promote sustainability. By integrating environmental science, geography, and agricultural economics, the book provides a holistic understanding of rice cultivation.

Policies for High Quality, Safe, and Sustainable Food Supply in the Greater Mekong Subregion Thomas R. D. Weaver, Pavit Ramachandran, Lourdes S. Adriano, 2019-05-01. This book presents research into the production of safe, high quality, and environmentally friendly agriculture products in the Greater Mekong Subregion. It also explores the actions and policy options that could be pursued. Three themes are examined: Improving Food Safety and Quality, Inclusive and Sustainable Safe and Environment Friendly Agriculture Products, and Value Chains for Safe and Environment Friendly Agriculture Products. This aligns with the ASEAN Economic Community blueprint, which calls for the creation of a single market and production base for food, agriculture, forestry, and integration of the region into the global economy.
