The English Country Home:

The English Country Home Vanessa Berridge, 1987 Shows and describes the background of a series of British mansions farmhouses country homes and gardens and includes converted chapels and schoolhouses English Country Houses Vita Sackville-West, 2014 There is nothing quite like the English country house anywhere else in the world So pronounces Vita Sackville West in the beautiful essay that opens English Country Houses a brief history of the English country house from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century People may know of Sackville West's novels or her passion for gardening or her relationship with Virginia Woolf but few know of her efforts to boost the morale of her beloved England during World War II Sackville West spent her childhood years at Knole House a stately country home that deeply influenced her life and work In entertaining and accessible prose she brings a deep affection to the task of boosting the morale of a country beset by war This volume in the Britain in Pictures series is a love letter to the elegant homes of the English countryside and served as a balm to a besieged country Writing at the height of the Blitz as cities lay in smoldering ruins after relentless bombing Sackville West demonstrates a yearning for the safety provided by these exceptional buildings We discover the architecture of the stately houses with details conveyed in such entertaining and vivid prose that the buildings and surrounding areas come to life The story is not just about the buildings however but also about the people who built and lived in them from the most common of squires to the highest born kings and queens Equal parts architectural history and cultural history this insider's view is quintessentially British Its elegant package with a ribbon for bookmarking makes it the perfect gift for any Anglophile

Eavesdropping in the Novel from Austen to Proust Ann Gaylin,2002 Eavesdropping in the Novel from Austen to Proust investigates human curiosity and its representation in eavesdropping scenes in nineteenth century English and French novels Ann Gaylin argues that eavesdropping dramatizes a primal human urge to know and offers a paradigm of narrative transmission and reception of information among characters narrators and readers Gaylin sheds light on the social and psychological effects of the nineteenth century rise of information technology and accelerated flow of information as manifested in the anxieties about and delight in displays of private life and its secrets Analysing eavesdropping in Austen Balzac Collins Dickens and Proust Gaylin demonstrates the flexibility of the scene to produce narrative complication or resolution to foreground questions of gender and narrative agency to place the debates of privacy and publicity within the literal and metaphoric spaces of the nineteenth century novel This 2003 study will be of interest to scholars of nineteenth century English and European literature Recovering Boarding School Trauma

Narratives Christine Jack,2020-04-28 Recovering Boarding School Trauma Narratives Christopher Robin Milne as a Psychological Companion on the Journey to Healing is a unique emotive and theorised narrative of a young girl s experience of boarding school in Australia Christine Jack traces its impact on the emerging identity of the child including sexual development and emotional capacity the transmission of trauma into adulthood and the long process of recovery Interweaving her story with the experiences of Christopher Robin Milne she presents her memoir as an exemplar of how narrative writing can be employed in remembering and recovering from traumatic experiences Unique and powerfully written Jack takes the reader on a journey into her childhood in Australian boarding school convents in the 1950s and 1960s Comparing her experience with Christopher Robin Milne s she interrogates his memoirs illustrating that boarding school trauma knows no boundaries of time and place She investigates their emerging individuality before being sent to live an institutional life and traces their feelings of longing and loneliness as well as the impact of the abuse each endured there As an educational historian Jack writes in a ground breaking way from the perspective of an insider and outsider revealing how trauma remains in the unconscious wielding power over the life of the adult until the traumatic memories are recovered emotions released and associated dysfunctional behaviour changed restoring well being Engaging the lenses of history life span and Jungian psychology feminist and trauma theory and boarding school trauma research this book positions narrative writing as a way of reducing the power of trauma over the lives of survivors Personal and accessible this book will be essential reading for psychologists and educational historians as well as students and academics of psychology sociology trauma studies ex boarders and those interested in the life of Christopher Robin Milne The Spur ,1925 The English-speaking World ,1919 Vols 10 include the Union s Annual report 9th 11th 16th 18th 1929 1936 Rewriting the North Chloe Ashbridge,2023-05-15 This book shows how twenty first century writing about Northern England imagines alternative democratic futures for the region and the English nation signalling the growing awareness of England as a distinct and variegated political formation In 2016 the Brexit vote intensified ongoing constitutional tensions throughout the UK which have been developing since the devolution of Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland in 1997 At the same time British devolution developed a distinctively cultural registration as a surrogate for parliamentary representation and an attempt to disrupt the status of London as Britain s cultural epicentre Rewriting the North shifts this debate in a new direction examining Northern literary preoccupation with devolution s constitutional implications Through close readings of six contemporary authors Sunjeev Sahota Sarah Hall Anthony Cartwright Adam Thorpe Fiona Mozley and Sarah Moss this book argues that literary engagement with the North emphasises regional devolution s limited constitutional charge calling instead for an urgent abandonment of the British centralised state form Fiction Catalog ,1928 Forms of English History in Literature, Landscape, and Architecture J.
