Excerpt from The Old Masters and Their Pictures For the Use of Schools and Learners in Art With Illustrations From Paintings I wish to say in a very few words that this book is intended to be a simple account of the great Old Masters in painting of every age and country with descriptions of their most famous works for the use of learners and outsiders in art The book is not and could not well be exhaustive in its nature I have avoided definitions of schools considering that these should form a later and more elaborate portion of art education and preferring to group my painters according to what I hold to be the primitive arrangements of time country and rank in art About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Old Masters and Their Pictures

Sarah Tytler, 2012-08 Excerpt respects Veronese surpassed both But he was certainly deficient in a sense of suitability and probability He of all painters carried to an outrageous extent the practice which I have defended in some degree of painting sacred and historical subjects as if they had happened in his own day and city He violated taste and even reason in painting every scene lofty or humble sacred or profane alike with the pomp of splendour and richness of ornament which were the fashion of the time but he had a vivid perception of character and a certain greatness of mind which redeemed his plethora of gorgeousness from monotony or vulgarity Veronese is reported to have been far more correct and careful in drawing than was Tintoret while Veronese's prodigality of colour was a mellowed version of Tintoret's glare or deadness One of Veronese's best pictures is the Marriage of Cana painted originally for the refectory of the convent of San Giorgio Venice and now in the Louvre It is not less than thirty feet long and twenty feet high and contains about one hundred and thirty figures life size The Marriage Feast of the Galilean citizen is represented with a pomp worthy of Ormuz or of Ind A sumptuous hall of the richest architecture lofty columns long lines of marble balustrades rising against the sky a crowd of guests splendidly attired some wearing orders of knighthood are seated at tables covered with gorgeous vases of gold and silver attended by slaves jesters pages and musicians In the midst of all this dazzling pomp this display of festive enjoyment these moving figures these lavish colours in glowing approximation we begin after a while to distinguish the principal personages our Saviour the Virgin Mary the twelve Apostles mingled with Venetian senators and ladies clothed in the rich costume of the sixteenth century monks friars poets artists all portraits of personages existing in his own time while in a group The Old Masters and Their
