The Non-Literate Other Helga

Ramsey-Kurz, 2007-01-01 Public debates on the benefits and dangers of mass literacy prompted nineteenth century British authors to write about illiteracy Since the early twentieth century writers outside Europe have paid increasing attention to the subject as a measure both of cultural dependence and independence So far literary studies has taken little notice of this The Non Literate Other Readings of Illiteracy in Twentieth Century Novels in English offers explanations for this lack of interest in illiteracy amongst scholars of literature and attempts to remedy this neglect by posing the question of how writers use their literacy to write about a condition radically unlike their own Answers to this question are given in the analysis of nineteen works featuring illiterates yet never before studied for doing so The book explores the scriptlessness of Neanderthals in William Golding of barbarians in Angela Carter David Malouf and J M Coetzee of African natives in Joseph Conrad and Chinua Achebe of Maoris in Patricia Grace and Chippewas in Louise Erdrich of fugitive or former slaves and their descendants in Richard Wright Toni Morrison and Ernest Gaines of Untouchables in Mulk Raj Anand and Salman Rushdie and of migrants in Maxine Hong Kingston Joy Kogawa and Amy Tan In so doing it conveys a clear sense of the complexity and variability of the phenomenon of non literacy as well as its fictional resourcefulness

Revisiting Racialized Voice David

G Holmes, 2007-09-03 Revisiting Racialized Voice African American Ethos in Language and Literature argues that past misconceptions about black identity and voice codified from the 1870s through the 1920s inform contemporary assumptions about African American authorship and ethos Tracing elements of racial consciousness in the works of Frederick Douglass Charles Chesnutt W E B DuBois Zora Neale Hurston and others David G Holmes urges a revisiting of narratives from this period to strengthen and advance notions about racialized writing and to shape contemporary composition pedagogies Pointing to the intersection of African American identity literature and rhetoric Revisiting Racialized Voice begins to construct rhetorically workable yet ideologically flexible definitions of black voice Holmes maintains that political pressure to embrace color blindness endangers scholars ability to uncover links between racialized discourses of the past and those of the present and he calls instead for a reassessment of the material realities and theoretical assumptions race represents and with which it has been associated

Literacy in African American Communities Joyce L. Harris, Alan G. Kamhi, Karen E. Pollock, 2014-04-08 This volume explores the unique sociocultural contexts of literacy development values and practices in African American communities African Americans young and old are frequently the focus of public discourse about literacy In a society that values a rather sophisticated level of literacy they are among those who are most disadvantaged by low literacy achievement Literacy in African American Communities contributes a fresh perspective by revealing how social history and cultural values converge to influence African Americans literacy values and practices acknowledging that literacy issues pertaining to this group are as unique and complex as this group's collective history. Existing literature on literacy in African American communities is typically segmented by age or academic discipline. This fragmentation obscures the cyclical life span effects of this population's legacy of low literacy. In contrast, this book brings together in a single source volume personal, historical, developmental, and cross-disciplinary vantage points to look at both developmental and adult literacy from the perspectives of education, linguistics, psychology, anthropology, and communication sciences and disorders. As a whole, it provides important evidence that the negative cycle of low literacy can be broken by drawing on the literacy experiences found within African American communities.
