combined created two different rare diseases Fanconi Anemia and Wiskott Aldrich While their two daughters were left unscathed all four of their boys would eventually succumb to these diseases How they survived and even thrived is an incredible story of love love for each other their children and their family It is also a story of holding onto faith in family friends and God even when faced with the most horrific test a parent can imagine Without faith neither Gwen nor Henry could have endured all that was put before them Their journey taught them that as long as you have faith you can overcome anything even the loss of a child even the loss of four children This book stands as an example of no matter who you are or what your background you can endure all that God puts before you It is a lesson in understanding God s greatest gifts our children and how you must cherish every moment they are on this earth This book is a testament to the McNutt s and their belief that God will never give us more than we can handle Wait No More Kelly Rosati, John Rosati, 2011 I kept thinking God was challenging us asking us if we d just pass by Or would we be like the Good Samaritan who did something about the person in need right in front of him A little boy who needed a home An infant girl who needed a mother s love A toddler trapped in the insecurity of foster care A tiny girl without a family Kelly and John Rosati never expected to adopt four children from the U S foster care system But God s plan for them turned out to be more extraordinary than they could have dreamed As you follow Kelly and John on their amazing journey through the child welfare system you ll be inspired by the story of how God brought their family together And you ll be challenged by the desperate needs of children still waiting for families Joining with her husband John to tell their story Kelly Rosati vice president of Community Outreach and cofounder of Focus on the Family s Wait No More R program takes you behind the scenes to share her inspiration and passion for the project The Rosati family s story is one of hope amid challenges beauty from ashes and faith that sustains It s a beautiful picture of what family truly means Learn more about the Wait No More program and the Rosati family at icareaboutorphans.org/waitnomorebook.aspx A Love That Matters Diane Vrana, 2009 Does it matter that I lie next to you on the floor and gaze into your eyes when you seem to be in a whole different world far far away from me Does it matter that I whisper I love you and Mommy is here to help you and I will do everything I can to get you better Do my intentions for you matter Do you hear my vows of love Does it make any sense to you I see a fleeting glimmer of recognition run across your face and then watch as it fades into oblivion does it matter that I try to reach you in your locked away world Diane Vrana knows firsthand how time can stand excruciatingly still when you are told that your child has Autism She knows how it feels to go home and to say Now what Her youngest son Aaren was diagnosed with the disorder when he was two and a half years old Come along with her as she describes her family s journey with heartfelt raw emotion Allow her to offer comfort and solace to your broken heart as she speaks of faith and offers hope Travel with her as she helps you to understand the disorder parent to parent in everyday terms that you can understand the causes the symptoms and some of the biomedical and therapy treatment options available Follow her as she shows you exactly what her family did to heal her son who at seven years old

Approaching her 21st birthday Julene's life seemed PERFECT She had just returned home from a 7 week performance tour in Europe started her senior year in college and was making wedding plans with her true love Tragedy struck when she was routinely prescribed an antibiotic for a sore throat The rare toxic reaction that followed taking only 2 capsules of penicillin was not recognized during the first two trips to the hospital emergency room but it left 70% of her skin blistered her internal organs damaged and her eyes severely impaired Julene was flown to a burn center where she was placed in an induced coma and on a ventilator and oxygen for over two months Serious complications of every kind arose including multiple surgeries near fatal reactions to medicines and the constant deterioration of her lungs When she recovered enough to be conscious again she was unable to walk to talk to see or to breathe without a ventilator Healing was slow rehabilitation was traumatic and her suffering was horrendous both physically and emotionally Julene battled for her life with extraordinary courage and incredible persistence She uplifted those around her with her kind manner and her wonderful sense of humor which surfaced even under such difficult conditions Those who interacted with her truly felt that they were in the presence of an angel And this angel was the recipient of many miracles This book will give courage and perspective to those who have difficult trials in their life It will comfort those who have lost loved ones and help them to understand that there is a purpose to life and that there truly is life after death
