Armor In Vietnam [Illustrated Edition] Frederick Eugene Oldinsky, 2015-11-06 Includes 24 maps This thesis begins with a brief history of armored vehicles from their earliest concepts to the modern battle tank of today It critically examines the decision not to include tank units with the first American combat forces deployed in Vietnam and the irrationality of that decision in light of a similar decision made prior to the Korean conflict Tanks were deployed in limited numbers in Vietnam in spite of a decision to the contrary and once there I proved their usefulness and their ability to perform in a tropical environment against an elusive enemy Examples of the tank s effectiveness in Vietnam are given and the feasibility of deploying major armored forces to that country is discussed Problems created by insufficient armor are addressed as well as the limitations and vulnerabilities of tanks and other armored vehicles Armor doctrine is traced from the tank s role in breaking the stalemate of World War I through the formative years of World War II and its application to the war in Vietnam Since most armored weapons were designed primarily for conventional warfare a number of modifications were required to adapt the weapons to an unconventional war Some of the more significant modifications are described Finally lessons learned by the Vietnam experience and their future application are discussed Concluding consideration in the paper is whether or not decision makers will need these lessons learned or continue to make the same mistakes Armed Forces, 1982 M50 Ontos and M56 Scorpion 1956-70 Kenneth W Estes, 2016-11-17 Designed in the 1950s the US Marines M50 Ontos and the US Army s M56 Scorpion were both intended to be fast light air droppable tank killers for the Cold War battlefield an answer to the cumbersome and ineffective World War II vintage tanks that had taken to the battlefield during the Korean War Although they shared the aim of bringing light mobile and lethal antitank firepower to the infantry the two vehicles varied wildly in design to cater for their unique mission demands They first saw service in the Lebanon intervention of 1958 but it was in the Vietnam War that they made their name with the M50 Ontos seeing intense combat action in the Battle of Hue in 1968 Detailed illustrations and expert analysis provide the reader with a comprehensive history of these deadly antitank vehicles from early development through to their combat history and the eventual disbandment of the Marine Corps last antitank battalion with M50A1s in 1971 The Illustrated Encyclopedia of the World's Tanks and Fighting Vehicles Christopher F. Foss, 1977 British Cruisers in World War One R. A. Burt, 1987 Vietnam Studies - Mounted Combat In Vietnam [Illustrated Edition] General Donn A. Starry, 2014-08-15 Includes 1 chart 17 maps 6 diagrams and 38 illustrations The generally unsuccessful experience of French armored forces in Southeast Asia from the end of World War II to 1954 convinced American military men that armored units could not be employed in Vietnam It was not until 1967 however when a study titled Mechanized and Armor Combat Operations Vietnam was sent to the Chief of Staff and Secretary of the Army that the potential of armored forces was fully described to the Army s top leaders Despite the study s findings that armored cavalry was probably the most cost effective force on the Vietnam battlefield there was little that could be done to alter significantly either the structure of forces already sent to Vietnam or those earmarked for deployment. The armored force of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam meanwhile had been successful enough in fighting the elusive Viet Cong that U S armored units had been deployed in limited numbers usually as part of their parent divisions. From early March 1965 until the cease fire in Jan 1973 U S armored units participated in virtually every large scale offensive operation and worked closely with South Vietnamese Army and other free world forces. After eight years of fighting over land on which tanks were once thought to be incapable of moving in weather that was supposed to prohibit armored operations and dealing with an elusive enemy against whom armored units were thought to be at a considerable disadvantage armored forces emerged as powerful flexible and essential battle forces. In large measure they contributed to the success of the free world forces not only in close combat but in pacification and security operations as well. When redeployment began in early 1969 armored units were not included in the first forces scheduled for redeployment and indeed planners moved armored units down the scale time and again holding off their redeployment until the very end.
