Szirmai,P.

Lapperre,2001-08-14 The central aim of The Industrial Experience of Tanzania is to explain why the Tanzanian manufacturing sector experienced a long period of stagnation after an initial phase of rapid industrial growth Tanzania has been an extreme case with a high level of state intervention but the contributors show that there are lessons to be learnt here for African economies in general The analysis includes previously unpublished data and presents important conceptual and methodological advances Survey of Current Business ,1991 Recent Developments in the Theory of Industrial Organization Alfredo Del Monte,1992 These are times of profound structural change They are also times of great uncertainty as new forms of organization and market behavior emerge to replace and reshape older forms. Nowhere is this uncertainty felt more than in industrial organization theory. Notwithstanding the revolution it has undergone in the last decade due to the development of new tools and directions of analysis, the discipline has yet to create a coherent new body of thought. This book, in bringing together the work of academics who have all played a major role in injecting new life into the discipline, is an attempt to move toward this goal. Opening with an introduction by Alfredo Del Monte to the terms of the new debate relating to the rise of the new technological, behavioral, and organizational forms, the book moves on to consider the contribution of three new approaches to industrial organization theory. John Sutton and Giovanni Dosi assess respectively the contribution of game theory and the evolutionary approach, while John Hey reviews the application of experimental methods. Following chapters by Malcolm Sawyer and Keith Cowling assess the relationship between structure and the characteristics of the industrial system as a whole, while Alfredo Del Monte and Fabio Esposito then discuss the significance of intra-industry differences related to variations in the flexibility of organizational structure. The contribution by Roberta Marchionatti and Francesco Silva, using the Italian case as an example, illustrates the impact of public intervention on industrial structure. Subsequently, theoretical issues regarding the internal organization of the firm are examined by Neil Kay, who assesses the joint venture as a particular form of collaborative activity, and by Nicola Acocella, who reviews different theories of the multinational firm. Another contribution to this set of chapters on the theory of the firm is Ricardo Martinelli's on the duopoly setting. The book concludes with three chapters respectively by Paul Stoneman, Damiano Silipo, Neil O'Higgins, and Patrizia Sbriglia on different issues concerning the relationship between technical progress and market structure.

Growth, Structural Change and Regional Inequality in Malaysia Asan Ali Golam Hassan, 2017-11-30

Economic development in the long run is seen as a process of structural change that is affected by economic growth. Malaysia is one of the middle-income economies that are going through rapid structural change. Since the mid-1980s it has changed to an industrially based economy with large-scale export of electrical and electronic components. However, thirty years after Malaysia's redistributive policies have been exercised, regional inequality still exists. This book examines the nature and impact of regional policies in relation to the patterns of demographic and economic structural change and in relation to growth, distribution, and income disparities across regions in Peninsular Malaysia. The book also explores the degree to which differences in regional manufacturing distribution and concentration have contributed to regional inequality. It concludes with a number of recommendations for regional policies that will reduce this inequality.
