DeWitt,2013-10-31 Explore the ARL s initiatives for identifying formulating and testing new criteria for evaluating academic libraries in the digital age The proliferation of electronic information resources in the past decade has changed the ways in which research libraries evaluate their service and holdings This collection of articles thirteen of which previously appeared in ARL s bimonthly newsletter report on research issues and actions examines new measures for library evaluation that are being developed by the Association of Research Libraries It presents an overview of how the Association of Research Libraries new measures initiative developed plus insightful reports on the details of the SERVQUAL LibQUAL and E metrics projects Handy flow charts and tables make the information easily accessible and understandable From the editor The profound changes in library management and collection development brought about by digital technology in the closing decade of the twentieth century have changed the way we think about libraries. If we were to ask librarians who have been in the profession for more than a decade how they evaluated a library we probably would hear statistics about the number of volumes held and added annually, the number of serial subscriptions, how much money a library has to spend and how many professionals are on staff. These are the traditional criteria by which libraries have been judged throughout much of the twentieth century. Newer librarians, however, especially those who entered the profession in the late 1980s and 1990s, use a different yardstick and frequently recite different statistics that include terms such as user satisfaction, spending on electronic resources and services, document delivery services, numbers of databases and electronic journals available and services provided to distance learners. In Evaluating the Twenty First Century Library you will find valuable information on current performance measures for academic libraries, the continuing search for accurate new performance measures, the uses of learning outcomes assessment, SERVQUAL, LibQUAL and the ARL LibQUAL Pilot Project, the results of the 2000 Symposium on Measuring Library Service Quality, the uses of E metrics in assessing the academic networked environment and accurately measuring use, users, services, resources and other factors, an insightful discussion of the rise in spending on electronic information by research libraries.

Handbook of Distance Education Michael Grahame Moore, 2013-05-07 The third edition of this award winning Handbook continues the mission of its predecessors to provide a comprehensive compendium of research in all aspects of distance education, arguably the most significant development in education over the past three decades. While the book deals with education that uses technology, the focus is on teaching and learning and how its management can be facilitated through technology. Key features include Comprehensive coverage that includes all aspects of distance education including design, instruction, management, policy and a section on different audiences. Chapter authors frame their topic in terms of empirical research, past and present, and discuss the nature of current practice in terms of that research. Future research needs are discussed in relation to both confirmed practice and recent changes in the field. Section one provides a unique review of the theories that support distance education pedagogy. Section six includes a unique review of distance education as a component of global culture. This book will be of interest to anyone engaged in distance education at any level. It is also appropriate for corporate and government trainers and for administrators and policy makers in all these environments. Recipient of the 2013 IAP Distance Education Book Award.

Cases on Research Support Services in Academic Libraries Fernández-Marcial, Viviana, González-Solar, Llarina, 2020-08-28 Academic libraries have traditionally had two key functions: to support teaching and to support research. In an evolving and competitive university environment, along with the emergence of various technologies and substantial changes in scientific communication, university management has reached a turning point. Academic libraries are facing a paradigm shift in the role they need to play to achieve the research objectives of universities. Research support services in academic libraries have evolved as a response to these changes They are heterogeneous adapt to their university culture adopt different points of view take different approaches in their organizational structures and include a diverse catalog of activities Having an overview of different experiences will allow libraries to adopt best practices redefine services and even establish new management and collaboration models Cases on Research Support Services in Academic Libraries is a critical scholarly resource that uses case studies to systematize the experiences of research support services in academic libraries for the support of higher education faculty The cases focus on such items as the role of technology and its impact as well as how these services help to improve the excellence of universities Featuring a wide range of topics such as library services data management and open science this book is ideal for librarians academicians professionals researchers and students      Best Practices in Access Services Lori L. Driscoll,W. Bede Mitchell,2014-06-11 Access Services departments in libraries have become highly complex organizations responsible for a broad range of functions often including circulation reserves interlibrary lending and borrowing document delivery stacks maintenance building security photocopying and providing general patron assistance This book offers effective solutions to familiar problems fresh ideas for responding to patron needs and informed speculation on new trends and issues facing access services departments This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Access Services      Core Competencies ,2002      Library Systems Office Organization ,2002      Library Literature & Information Science ,2008 An index to library and information science literature      Collaboration for Distance Learning Information Literacy Instruction Association of College and Research Libraries.
