Abstract. Pekanbaru as the capital of Riau Province is one of the rapidly progressing cities. However, the city still has the problem of urban poverty. Although the poverty rate of Pekanbaru City is relatively low, poverty is a complex development problem. Mieranti Pandak, as one of the sub-districts in Rambai Pesisir District, is also still experiencing the problem of urban poverty. Natural conditions of Siak Riverbanks often experience flooding due to environmental damage. To survive, the inhabitants of the region must be able to adapt. Women in poor households have a large role, both in terms of economic and social resilience. This study adds to the repertoire of thoughts for analyzing the role of women in survival in urban poor households. The purpose of this study was to analyze the characteristics of the poor in Mieranti Pandak Sub-district, Rambai Pesisir District, the role of women in poor households in the Life Survival Strategy, and the trend of gender equality in economic activity in poor households. The results show that the role of women in survival strategies in poor households is through debt and sufficiency, regulating the structure of consumption/dietary patterns, developing the economy/subsistence production, relying on government and generous assistance (especially during floods during the rainy season), and trade in the micro-scale informal sector. With regard to gender equality in urban poor households, the poorer the household, the wider the inequality and the smaller the role of women in family economic control.

1 Background

Poverty is one of the urban socio-economic problems. Although the number of poor people in urban areas is less than in rural areas, the problem of urban poverty is much more complex. Poor people in the city are relatively more difficult to live when compared to the poor in rural areas because the main source of fulfilling their needs is money. In rural areas, with little money people can eat with the results of natural resource management.

Poverty is a multidimensional problem, where poverty is not only measured by income, but also includes the vulnerability and vulnerability of people or groups of people, both men and women, to become poor, and limited access of the poor in determining public policies that have an impact on their lives. Therefore, solving the problem of poverty needs to be based on understanding the voices of the poor themselves and the recognition, fulfillment and

Survival Strategies Of Poor Women In Urban Africa:

The Survival Strategies of Poor Women in Urban Africa C. O'Reilly, 1995 Power and Informality in Urban Africa Laura Stark, Annika Björnsdotter Teppo, 2021-12-16 Urban Africa is undergoing a transformation unlike anywhere else in the world as unprecedented numbers of people migrate to rapidly expanding cities But despite the growing body of work on urban Africa the lives of these new city dwellers have received relatively little attention particularly when it comes to crucial issues of power and inequality This interdisciplinary collection brings together contributions from urban studies geography and anthropology to provide new insights into the social and political dynamics of African cities as well as uncovering the causes and consequences of urban inequality Featuring rich new ethnographic research data and case studies drawn from across the continent the collection shows that Africa's new urbanites have adapted to their environs in ways which often defy the assumptions of urban planners By examining the experiences of these urban residents in confronting issues of power and agency the contributors consider how such insights can inform more effective approaches to research city planning and development both in Africa and beyond Housing and Finance in Developing Countries Kavita Datta, Gareth

Jones, 2012-10-12 This book explores the linkages between formal and informal housing finance drawing upon the lessons of NGO and micro finance practices Both public and private formal finance institutions have experienced great difficulty in lending below a middle income client group and are often reluctant to lend for the purpose of housing at all This failure of formal finance to filter down to low income households and in particular to women has led various NGOs and community groups to create and adopt innovative finance programmes such as informal savings banks and credit rotating schemes The authors critically assess the impact of these schemes and evaluate links between gender housing and finance

Agriculture in Urban Planning Mark Redwood, 2012-05-16 This volume by graduate researchers working in urban agriculture examines concrete strategies to integrate city farming into the urban landscape Drawing on original field work in cities across the rapidly urbanizing global south the book examines the contribution of urban agriculture and city farming to livelihoods and food security Case studies cover food production diversification for robust and secure food provision the socio economic and agronomic aspects of urban composting urban agriculture as a viable livelihood strategy strategies for integrating city farming into urban landscapes and the complex social ecological networks of urban agriculture Other case studies look at public health aspects including the impact of pesticides micro biological risks pollution and water contamination on food production and people Ultimately the book calls on city farmers politicians environmentalists and regulatory bodies to work together to improve the long term sustainability of urban farming as a major secure source of food and employment for urban populations Published with IDRC Rural-urban Transformations Mahmoud Bah, 2003

Beyond the Resources of Poverty Sebnem Eroglu, 2011 This groundbreaking volume researches the lives of gecekondu settlers in the capital city of Turkey in order to understand how households cope with poverty and why some households are more successful than others in reducing their deprivation It takes a critical stance towards existing conceptions such as household survival livelihood and coping strategy and develops an alternative model based on four types of household response to poverty income generation income allocation consumption and investment In explaining household responses and their outcomes for poverty the book demonstrates the role of different resources beyond income including social economic and cultural capital It emphasises broader structural factors such as labour market processes and state policies which influence the availability and or benefit delivery capacity of household resources and thereby moves beyond the dominant view which overemphasises the resilience of the poor Gender divisions within the household are also examined The book adopts an innovative method for measuring poverty The new method combines objective and subjective dimensions of deprivation to develop a unique way of addressing two central questions what are those standards of living whose absence indicates deprivation and how can the value of each standard of living be determined

Resilience and Sustainability in Urban Africa Innocent Chirisa, Andrew Chigudu, 2021-08-02 Resilience has become a very topical issue transcending many spheres and sectors of sustainable urban development This book presents a resilience framework for sustainable cities and towns in Africa The rise in informal settlements is due to the urban planning practices in most African cities that rarely reflect the realities of urban life and environment for urban development Aspects of places people and process are central to the concept of urban resilience and sustainable urban growth It stems from the observation that urban vulnerability is on the increase in Zimbabwe and beyond In history disasters have adversely affected nations across the world inflicting wide ranging losses on one hand while on the other hand creating development opportunities for urban communities Cooperation in disaster management is a strategy for minimising losses and uplifting the affected urban settlements The significance of urban planning and design in the growth and development of sustainable urban centres is well documented Urbanisation has brought with it challenges that most developing countries such as Zimbabwe are not equipped to handle This has been accompanied by problems such as overpopulation overcrowding shortages of resources and the growth of slum settlements There need is to seriously consider urban planning and design in order to come up with contemporary designs that are resilient to current urban challenges There are major gaps in urban resilience building for instance in Harare and the local authority needs to prioritise investment in resilient urban infrastructure

Small Town Africa Jonathan Baker, 1990

Surviving on the Move Jonathan Crush, Bruce Frayne, 2010-02-01 Since the collapse of apartheid there have been major increases in migration flows within to and from the Southern African region Cross border movements are at an all time high across the region and internal migration is at record levels The implications of greater mobility for areas of origin and destination have not been systematically explored Migration is most often seen as a negative phenomenon a result of increased poverty and the failure of development More recently the positive relationship between migration and development has been emphasised by agencies such as the Global Commission on International Migration the Global Forum on Migration and Development the United Nations Development Programme and the African Union The chapters in this publication are all based on primary research and examine various facets of the relationship between migration poverty and development including issues that are often ignored in the migration development debate like migration and food security and migration and vulnerability to HIV The book argues that the development and poverty reduction potential of migration is being hindered by national policies that fail to recognise and build on the positive aspects and potential of migration As a result as these studies show migrants are often pushed to the margins where they are forced to survive on the move Their treatment violates labour laws and basic human rights and compromises the potential of migration as a means to create sustainable livelihoods reduce poverty and food insecurity mitigate the brain drain and promote the productive use of remittances This book shows that migrant lives and livelihoods should be at the centre of international and African debates about migration poverty and development NRI Socio-economic Series ,1993 Financing Urban Shelter Un-Habitat,2013-06-17

Achieving the goals set by world leaders in the United Nations Millennium Declaration will be difficult without a significant improvement in the lives of slum dwellers and the lives of slum dwellers cannot be improved without the sound and sustainable economic development that is conducive to the establishment of a strong shelter sector As Financing Urban Shelter Global Report on Human Settlements 2005 emphasizes one of the key challenges in meeting the Millennium Declaration Goal on slums is mobilization of the financial resources necessary for both slum upgrading and slum prevention by supplying new housing affordable to lower income groups on a large scale It is my hope that by highlighting the impacts of current shelter financing systems on low income households and by identifying the types of financing mechanisms that appear to have worked for them this report will contribute to the efforts of the wide range of actors involved in improving the lives of slum dwellers including governments at the central and local levels as well as non governmental and international organizations From the Foreword by KOFI ANNAN Secretary General United Nations Financing Urban Shelter presents the first global assessment of housing finance systems placing shelter and urban development challenges within the overall context of macroeconomic policies The report describes and analyses housing finance conditions and trends in all regions of the world including formal housing finance mechanisms microfinance and community funding highlighting their relevance to the upgrading of slums Recent shelter finance policy development is discussed at the international and national levels and the directions that could be taken to strengthen shelter finance systems are examined The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date assessment of conditions and trends in the world s cities It is an essential tool and reference for researchers academics public authorities and civil society organizations around the world The preceding issues of the Global Report on Human Settlements have addressed such topics as An Urbanizing World Cities in a Globalizing World and The Challenge of Slums Published with UN HABITAT Access to Basic Infrastructure by the Urban Poor Aurelio Menéndez,1991 This report documents discussions on urban poverty issues in the developing countries of Latin America Africa and Asia related to the urban poor's access to basic infrastructure services. Basic infrastructure services are services that allow the urban poor to live under conditions that facilitate their income generating activities so they can maintain a good nutritional level and participate in the normal activities of society. Services include housing, transportation, water, sanitation, solid waste disposal, and energy for cooking and lighting. In addition to discussing ways to improve the conditions of the poor in urban areas through the provision of basic infrastructure services, the workshop also laid the groundwork for follow up regional senior policy seminars in Latin America, Africa, and Asia. While workshop participants did not attempt to conclude with formal policy recommendations, they did develop general areas of consensus. The focus of the workshop discussions were on the following concerns: financial issues, the role of nongovernmental organizations, the role of governments, and the relationship between nongovernmental organizations and the governments.

Financing Urban Shelter United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2005. Financing Urban Shelter presents the first global assessment of housing finance systems, placing shelter and urban development challenges within the overall context of macroeconomic policies and the Millennium Development Goals target on slums: a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers by 2020. The report describes and analyses housing finance conditions and trends in all regions of the world, including formal housing finance mechanisms, microfinance, and community funding, highlighting their relevance to the upgrading of slums. Recent shelter finance policy development is discussed at the international and national levels, and directions that could be taken to strengthen shelter finance systems were examined.

Religion and Social Development in Post-apartheid South Africa Ignatius Swart, Hermann Rocher, Sulina Green, Johannes Erasmus, 2010-10-01. It reflects original research and contributes to new developments in the field of theology and religion with regard to its developmental role within a transformation context. The book may easily stand out in future as seminal in the way that it promoted the social development debate of the church and its organisational structures from an interdisciplinary focus. Prof. Antoinette Lombard, Department of Social Work and Criminology, University of Pretoria.

Urban Livelihoods Carole Rakodi, Tony Lloyd-Jones, 2014-10-14. One of the most promising approaches to poverty reduction in developing countries is to encourage sustainable livelihoods for the poor. This takes account of their opportunities and assets and the sources of their vulnerability. Based on recent and extensive research, this volume thoroughly assesses the value of the livelihoods approach to urban poverty. The book reviews the situation and strategies of the urban poor and identifies the policies and practical programmes that work best. Lasting improvements depend not just on economic development but on political commitment and structures that are responsive to the claims and needs of different groups of poor people.

Globalization in Africa Etham B. Mijah, Moses E. U. Tedheke, Usman A. Tar, 2016-10-28. This book presents critical perspectives on the impacts of globalization in Africa, with particular reference to the crisis of development and governance, the crisis of peace and security, and the environmental crisis. It explores both global and local factors that exacerbate these crises and seeks solutions to these challenges With a strong slant on African experience and perspectives the book reveals that globalization has presented Africa with both challenges and opportunities for governance and existence in an increasingly inter connected planet
