must be a place for human sympathy in the understanding and still more in the treatment of individual offenders This book is concerned with the efficiency of the system as a means to these ends One of the main reasons why penal institutions have continued to develop more slowly than other social services is that they are a constant battlefield between emotions and prejudices This is a great empirical study against which the policy maker and criminologist can measure progress or regression in British criminals and punishments Nigel Walker is Emeritus Wolfson Professor of Criminology and former director of the Institute of Criminology at the University of Cambridge He is the author of numerous books including A Man without Loyalties Behavior and Misbehavior and Aggravation Mitigation and Mercy in English Criminal Justice Criminal Justice Act 2003 Bryan Gibson, Michael Watkins, 2004 The ideal all round treatment of the CJA 2003 and its impact across the criminal justice process Whatever else you may read you will surely value this clear accessible and informative introduction covering all key aspects of the Act in a readable way All the essentials the keys to decoding the mass of statutory provisions In just 176 pages With Key Extracts and Summaries from the Act A chronological walk through the 2003 Act looking at processes and procedures from those affecting initial investigation into an offence remand and bail to those bearing upon criminal trials and Sentencing the fresh principles and criteria new style sentences and considerations An essential and practical work for anyone wanting an accessible introduction with a clear focus on key aspects of the Act bearing on issues central to daily practice
